ITALIANS MASS 900,000 MEN

TOURS, France, June 12 (AP)—Italian troops blew up a bridge at Vinti Mille on the French border in the Alps today after completing the mobilization of 60 to 70 divisions, a military commentator reported today.

(On the basis of an estimated strength of 15,000 men to a division, this would indicate the Italians had massed between 900,000 and 1,050,000 troops along France's southern frontier.—Editor's Note.)

HITLER HURLS FULL POWER IN BATTLE AT PARIS GATES

By the Associated Press

Battle-stained French poilus fought doggedly in a "last-ditch" defense of Paris today—reportedly holding fast on the old World War battlefields of Chateau Thierry and Meaux along the Marne—while the German high command said its armies had smashed to within 12½ miles of the French capital on the northwest

ALLIED FORCES BOMB NORTHERN COAST OF ITALY

ROME, June 12 (AP)—Enemy action against points in northern Italy along the Ligurian coast was authoritatively reported today, but details were withheld pending official announcement.

The Ligurian cost is that between Leghorn and the French-Italian frontier. Genoa lies on it and the important cities of Turin and Milan are just north of it.

The Rome reports did not indicate whether the action consisted of air or naval attacks.)

With British planes operatiog against Lybia from Egypt, an authoritative source said future relations between Italy and Egypt depended on developments in military action.

Italy's intention to refrain from draggingng Egypt into the war—provided she remains neutral—as announced by Premier Mussolini on Monday remained thus far without change, an informant said.

Although dispatches abroad said Egypt would sever diplomatic relations with Italy, the Egyptian minister, Mostafa El Sadek Bey, had not been advised at noon.

CITES 1936 TREATY

"There 's no real reason for severance of diplomatic relations between Egypt and Italy," Mostafa said, "but if it done it will be in accordance with Egypt's treaty of 1936 with Britain."

This is a treaty of military alliance.—Editor's Note.

Italy received the first news of the operation of her armed forces today when the high command announced that Italian planes had attacked the British naval base at Malta "with apparent results."

Crown Prince Umberto, as inspector of infantry, sent a message of encouragement to the infantry, saying "the fatherland is expecting still more splendid glories" from them.

PRINCE SENDS MESSAGE

The government announced that the British were interning Italians and pro-Italian Maltese nationalists in a concentration camp at Lata, built near the arsenals and ammunition dumps, which as military objectives would be targets for air bombardments.

"The solemn hours has struck," the Crown Prince's message said, "march with unshakable faith and heroic vision of past triumphs toward new and certain destinies of imperial Italy.

"The Fatherland is expecting still more splendid glories from you who are as brave and tenacious as ever. Long live Italy, long live the King Emperor, long live the Duce."

At the same time it was reported that the British air force had been driven off in an attempted flight

Up to French, British Say

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—British military circles said today that now "everything depends on the ability of the French army to hold the superior forces of the Germans' in the battle of France.

There has been "no slackening" of the German attack, it was said.

"The situation remains one of extreme difficulty," one commentator said. "The Germans are staking everything on this battle.

"The most serious thing is the development of the battle around Reims where heavy attacks have been launched with German armored troops of which there are two divisions."

"Nowhere have the French defenses been pierced," said a Paris spokesman, who cited terrific German assaults all along the western front from the lower (west) Seine to the Argonne Forest.

The Germans reported advances from 50 to 70 miles toward Paris "on many fronts" in the past six days of the titanic struggle.

"Our offensive," it was said, "is going ahead of schedule."

Rome reported the first enemy assault on Italian soil since Mussolini declared war Monday—an unspecified attack on the Ligurian coast, where the great Italian shipping port of Genoa is situated. Earlier, London had reported a British bombing attack on northern Italy.

SHIPPING BASE CAPTUDED

The Nazi high command also reported that Rouen, French shipping base on the Seine river, halfway between the capital and Le Havre, has been in German hands for several days. It also claimed capture of Reims and Senlis.

To the quickening beat of the war tempo, Italy was reported to have handed an ultimatum to Egypt.

BRITISH BOMBERS HARASS ITALIANS

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—British bombing planes harassed distant outposts of Italy's African empire and struck at German forces in Norway and France in ever-widening phases of the war yesterday.

From German-occupied Trondheim in Central Norway to Italian air bases in East Africa, the Royal Air Force reported successful raids, while Italian warplanes bombed Malta, British naval base in the Mediterranean.

At the same time, Allied naval forces closed the Suez Canal to Italian shipping which has plied the lifeline to Italy's colonies on the Red Sea.

FIRES STARTED

These blows were reported struck on both sides in the farflung theater of war:

1—The R. A. F. Middle East command announced "great success" in raids by long-range Blenheim bombers on desert airdromes in Italian Libya, where "aircraft were destroyed on the ground, fires started and a petrol dump set ablaze," and on air bases near Asmara in Eritrea, Italian East Africa, where "several direct hits were obtained on hangars."

The announcement said "we caught the enemy napping this time."

2—South African air force heavy bombers "successfully and heavily bombed" Italian Moyale, on the border between Italian conquered Ethiopia and the British colony of Kenya.

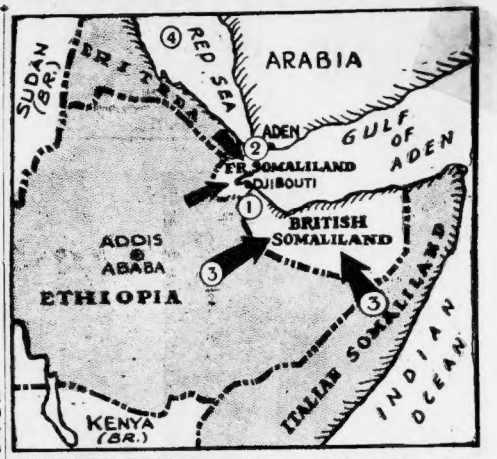
3—The R. A. F. swooped down on German naval units in Trondheim Harbor, Norway, reporting bomb hits on two cruisers and a transport.

EIGHT RAIDS

4—Italian planes staged eight raids on Malta from dawn to 11 p. m. yesterday, but the British said "little damage appeared to have been done and casualties were few."

5—British planes continued pounding at troop concentrations and supply bases behind the German front in France. An air ministry communique said at least five German planes were downed and seven British planes were missing after fights over Northern France "against enemy formations sometimes ten times our strength."

6—Anti-aircraft guns went into action early today off a southeast coast town in England, and a plane believed to be German was seen to dive after a sharp exchange of fire.



SOUTHERN FRONT—In an effort to cut the lifeline of the Allies' empire communications, Italian troops were reported driving upon France's African port of Djibouti (1) after bombing British bases at Malta and Aden (2). Striking from Ethiopia (3) and Italian Somaliland (3), Mussolini's legions were also reported to have crossed the frontier of British Somaliland. In retaliation, British bombers rained explosives on Italian bases in Ethiopia and Eritrea . . . and captured an Italian vessel loaded with bombs in the Red Sea (4).

BULLETINS

LONDON, June 12 (AP) — An Exchange Telegraph (British agency) dispatch from Cairo today said it was reported the Italian minister had delivered an ultimatum from the Italian government to Egypt.

NEW YORK, June 12 (INS) — The British radio today quoted a French military spokesman as saying that German troops which fought their way across the Seine have been wiped out in French counterattacks, according to word picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

LONDON, June 12 (AP) — The air ministry announced today that a Heinkel bomber was shot down by a British fighter off the southeast coast of England this morning.

LONDON, June 12 (AP)—Cancellation of all trains scheduled to take parents from London to visit their children in rural areas on June 16 and 23 was announced today.

Great Britain is conferring with Dominion governments on the question of sending children from the war zone to Dominion territory, Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, secretary for overseas trade, announced today.

Nazis Control All Airlines in So. America

NEW YORK, June 12 (INS) — Alarmed by the realization that control of South American aviation rests in Nazi hands, the U. S. Department of State has struck its first blow in a campaign to remove German fliers from the key lines of the Latin republics, the New York Journal-American said today.

The story added:

The dismissal of German employes of Avianca, the Colombian airlines company created by merger of the Scadta and Saco lines, it was learned, was ordered only after the strongest representations had been made to the Colombian government by State Department officials.

The State Department went into action after surveys made by U. S. commercial interests revealed a situation so potentially dangerous that no time could be lost.

HONEYCOMBED BY NAZIS

The situation outlined to them, briefly, was this:

South America today is honeycombed with individual airlines, operated under incorporation papers of Latin American republics, but actually run by German pilots, using German planes and equipment, with German personnel and ground crew.

As a result, it is pointed out, the entire continent could over night be transformed into a gigantic German air base, a jumping off board for a Nazi blitzkrieg.

A single Stuka bombing plane could completely cripple the Panama Canal—less than two hours flying time from Turbo, Colombia.

PREY TO BOMBERS

A squadron of Heinkel bombers could wreak terrific havoc upon the strategic U. S. outposts in the Caribbean, many less than a few hours from other South American ports.

This vast Nazi network stretches through the length of Latin America—from Colombia in the north through Equador, Brazil, Peru, Bolivia, Venezuela, Chile, Uruguay, Argentina. But—in each country it operates under another name. Thus—

Bolivia has the "Lloyd Aero Bolivano." It is incorporated as a Bolivian enterprise. But the planes are German Junkers; the pilots are German; the ground crew, personnel and equipment are German.

Argentina as "Posta Argentina." German pilots, German equipment, German personnel.

Brazil has "Condor de Brazil." German pilots, German equipment, German personnel.

Ecuador has the "Sedta airlines of Ecuador." The corporation is Ecuadorian—but the pilots, equipment, personnel, are German.

Peru has "Secursal Del Peru." The corporation is Peruvian, but the pilots, equipment, personnel, are German.

DANGER TO CANAL ZONE

Up to a few months ago, it was learned the powerful "Scadta" airliners in Colombia, whose Nazi employes were dismissed today, regularly brought in exchange pilots from Germany to fly the South American route. They had priceless opportunities to map

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL BACKS WAR AIMS OF DUCE, HITLER

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 12 (INS)—Surprise and speculation in foreign diplomatic circles today followed the declaration of President Getulio Vargas of Brazil that "virile peoples must follow the line of their aspirations," an utterance widely interpreted as giving approbation to the Italo-German axis and its war aims.

Although President Vargas at the same time proclaimed Brazil's neutrality in the present European conflict, his address, which included an attack on "sterile ideals," aroused widespread discussion not only in Brazil but in other South American countries.

The Brazilian President's speech, made in commemorating the 75th anniversary of the battle of Riachuele, in which the Brazilians won a great naval victory over Paraguay, followed by a day President Roosevelt's speech calling upon the South American nations to present a united front against Nazi and Fascist aggression.

Declaring that the world was now undergoing vast changes which would transform the future, Vargas said:

"Virile peoples must follow the line of their aspirations instead of standing still and gazing at a structure that is crumbling down.

"Thus, it is necessary to understand the new way of life and remove from the path the debris of old convictions and sterile ideals."

The future world, Vargas said, is only for "strong peoples, battle-hardened."

MEXICO CITY, June 12 (INS)—President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico sent a message of sympathy and encouragement to President Albert Lebrun of France today in connection with the Italian declaration of war against the Anglo-French Allies.

STOCKS IN SHARP UPSWING

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—The stock market surged upward $2 to $9 in leading issues today, in the most striking upswing since the huge wave of war buying which swept the market last Sept. 5.

Trading was in substantial volume.

Ignoring the close approach of the German army to Paris and other adverse foreign developments, stocks got off to a good start at the opening and kept advancing steadily.

Active shares included Du Pont, Johns-Manville, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone and Norfolk & Western.

Cotton advanced more than $1 a bale and most other futures markets were higher, including sugar, hides, rubber and wool tops. Wheat and corn were up moderately.

Brokers said the gradual shaping up of huge American rearmamenta program with expectations that domestic business would be greatly stimulated was the most important market factor.

Ethiopia Has First Bombing

PRETORIA, South Africa, June 12 (AP)—The first South African war communique said today:

"South African air force heavy bombers yesterday attacked military objectives in Abyssinia (Ethiopia).

"Extensive damage to buildings, personnel, roads and equipment was done."

"One heavy bomb scored a direct hit on the open shed packed with military transport vehicles. The attack was made from a height of approximately 800 feet.

"Although heavy machine-gun fire was encountered all our aircraft returned safely."

Abyssina, or Ethiopia, is the African kingdom which Italy took from Haile Selassie in 1935-36.—Editor's Note.

4 Killed When Mystery Airplanes Bomb Swiss

GENEVA, June 12 (AP)—The Swiss counted four dead, including two women, and many injured today in bombings of cities and villages by foreign planes. The identity of the bombers was not known.

At least 18 persons were hospitalized with serious wounds in Geneva, where five bombs were dropped in a residential suburban district, killing two persons.

Five bombs were dropped on a railroad station and a nearby hotel in Renens, north of Lausanne. A woman in a wheel chair was killed, her husband's foot was torn off, and a man, asleep in bed in the hotel, was fatally injured.

Swiss expressed an unofficial belief the plane that raided the Geneva suburb was Italian, but a communique some hours later did not state its nationality.

The plane, roaring over the towering Saleve cliff just across the border in France early today, moved over Swiss territory as it dropped its cargo in the Champel-Carouge district.

Sirens awakened Geneva residents and sent them scurrying for cellars when the Saleve cliff, which dominates the Geneva area, was crossed. French searchlights swept the sky and anti-aircraft gunners fired at the invader.

The plane bombs landed with terrific explosions, smashing at least one residence and leaving craters in several streets. Flying bits of bombs damaged other houses and the blasts shattered all windows within a radius of several blocks. While Swiss anti-aircraft guns boomed, the plane vanished southward.

By the time the all-clear signal was given and Geneva residents and foreigners of the large international colony emerged shakily from shelters, police and troops had surrounded the bombed area and were rushing the injured to hospitals.

BURGLARS, SEX FIEND HUNTED

Search for two men, colored, who are blamed for a number of recent burglaries in the area, was intensified today by Medford police as the result of a brutal attack last night on an invalid woman helplessly confined to her bed.

Two men were questioned following the attack on Mrs. Ciara Flanagan, 55, sister-in-law of Ray E. Southgate, prominent Boston broker.

In a number of burglaries in the same section, police have received reports that two colored men were suspected, but no attacks had been reported until last night.

HELPLESSLY ILL

Through a first floor window, the invader entered the elaborate home of Southgate at 595 High st., West Newton, to burglarize it, according to investigators.

But after he had ransacked the first floor, he went upstairs, found Mrs. Flanagan in bed, dragged her out and hurled her upon the floor.

Mrs. Flanagan, sister of Mrs. Southgate, has been helplessly ill for some time as a result of a virulent malady, police said.

Frightened by the arrival of the Southgates, who had been out for the evening, the attacker dashed down the stairs and rushed past the Southgates as he fled through the front door.

SEVERE SHOCK

Mrs. Flanagan was found in critical condition. Dr. Robert E. Lincoln treated the woman's injuries and reported she was suffering severe shock.

The assailant was described as colored, and 5 feet 10 inches tall, wearing a gray suit and a gray soft hat.

Joining in the manhunt were police departments of Woburn, Winchester and Arlington.

Deaf-Mute Nabs Two Holdup Men

George Spinney, 25, of Felleway East, Malden, may not be able to talk or hear, but he left no doubt as to his fighting ability today when he captured two suspects after he was held up in his car.

The deaf-mute told police the two men, posing as detectives, hopped on the running board as he paused for a traffic light in Massachusetts ave., South End.

Discovering Spinney's handicap, the bandits made their demands with gestures, relieved him of his watch and 15 cents.

As they fled down the street, Spinney gave chase and tackled both men, and then sought the help of passers-by. For several minutes Spinney fought with the men and at the same time endeavored by signs to apprise onlookers of the situation.

Finally, several citizens, comprehending, joined the fight and held Spinney's alleged assailants for police.

High Schools Graduate 16,000

High schools entered the commencement spotlight in Greater Boston today as graduation exercises for 16,000 students got under way. Leading the parade were the Roxbury Memorial Girls' High School and Dorchester Girls' High School. Charlestown High School also held graduation exercises.

Graduations today included Hyde Park and South Boston High Schools, and the High School of Practical Arts and Girls' High School.

Tomororw, Roslindale English and Roxbury Memorial Boys' High Schools will distribute diplomas. Friday, exercises will be held at Brighton, Jeremiah E. Burke, East Boston, Dorchester, Jamaica Plain and Mechanic Arts High Schools.

Excambion With 140 Refugees Docks Here

With 140 tired, tense-eyed refugees from Europe packed into her passenger accommodations, with $5,000,000 in gold stowed below her decks, the American Export liner Excambion docked at the South Boston Army Base today.

Frankly glad to be in America, passengers and ship's officers painted for news reporters vivid pictures of an old world sunk in a welter of blood and mass slaughter.

Said pretty 20-year-old Evelyn Carolan, returning home with her father, Edgar Carolan, former head of the International General Electric Co. in Paris:

"Biarritz, where I lived in southern France, is nothing but one great hospital now, a home for refugees and wounded soldiers, a hotbed of intrigue."

HOSPITALS CROWDED

Biarritz, until the war, was a frothy, white-building, palm-decodated playground for the fast international set.

"Now they have four hospitals there just for soldiers with head wounds," Evelyn Carolan said. "The four are jammed, all the time. Tens of thousands of refugees from Alsace-Lorrarine began to pour into Biarritz after Holland and Belgium were invaded.

"For two days we saw nothing except endless lines of mud covered, luggage-filled automobiles, many of them with the roofs and bodies punctured by machine gun bullets, fleeing down the streets."

Miss Carolan also said that Loyalist Spanish soldiers, given refuge in France when Franco conquered their cause in Spain, had turned saboteur and propagandiser for Russia in Southern France, and many had been forcibly sent back to Spain.

U. S. ENGINEER ABOARD

Lowell Simpson, American engineer engaged in building an oil refinery at Heifa, Palestine, arrived with wife and son, Richard, 5.

"When they began to sandbag all the houses a couple of weeks ago in Heifa, I decided it was time to get my family out of there," he said. "Then they began to make an armed fort out of that refinery, arming it with anti-aircraft guns and building trenches around it.

"Palestine is jammed with Australian troops of the British army, and riots are frequent. Thirty persons were killed in Jaffa just before we left when the army turned machine guns on them."

He said the British navy had been concentrated at Alexandria when he left, and the Italian navy at Naples.

Other passengers told of steaming out of Genoa at night and seeing the great Italian super liner Rex in a glare of blue white acetylene torches, presumably being converted into a troopship.

ANIMOSITY OF ITALIANS

They said they had avoided speaking English in Italian cities during the last months because of the open animosity of Italians toward them.

John F. Mauro, however, an American automobile agent from Belgium, said he thought the majority of Italians, however much they cheered, didn't believe in the wa

He blamed England for the rankest stupidity in failing to recognize the incredible rise of German armed strength in the last 10 years.

"Apparently they didn't want to recognize it," he said. He also added that if Italy suffers reverses in the present war, it will be the end of Mussolini's political dictatorship.

Marian Hayman of Chicago, after a year in the Near East, said the country was being intensely propagandized by both Germans and Italians, and Arabs were being urged by pamphlet to receive parachute troops.

Wife Wins Divorce, Court Raps Aid Plan

Judge Frederick J. Dillon, in granting a divorce today in probate court, decried the system which allows the community to support a wife and her children while the husband is gainfully employed.

The judge's comment was made in granting a divorce to Mrs. Jennie Botticelli of Revere st., Revere, from Salvatore Botticelli, employe of a North End biscuit company earning $27.50 a week, and extra for the use of his car, according to the wife.

Yet her husband, she testified, gave her only $6 a week, some weeks, and at other times might "toss me a quarter" for myself and the two children.

FORCED TO SEEK AID

She was forced to seek Mother's Aid, she testified, and was allowed $9.25 a week.

"It's a pretty fine state of affairs," said Judge Dillon. "I'll see now that the taxpayers don't bear the burden.

"I'm going to enter an order for $15 a week and I'm going to see that he lives up to it. This is an unbalanced budget if there ever was one."

Mrs. Botticelli testified that while her husband had little money for his family, he had affairs with other women and once brought another man and two girls home and ordered her to cook supper for them all.

BRIGHTON WIFE DIVORCED

Judge Dillon also granted a divorce to Mrs. Bertha M. Walsh of Brighton from John W. Walsh, also of Brighton, on the ground of desertion.

In 1933, six years after their marriage, the wife testified, he threw a sugar bowl and then left. They have been apart since.

Mrs. Helen V. Murch of Greenwich st., Dorchester, won a divorce from Chester E. Murch on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

Her testimony regarding arguments over money and abuses she alleged the husband inflicted on her were corroborated by the 12-year-old son, Chester, Jr.

Dr. Marsh, 3 Others Given State Posts

Four important appointments to State posts were submitted to the council today for approval by Gov. Saltonstall.

Charles W. Greenough of Dover was named to succeed Carl A. Raymond, recently retired, as burget commissioner. Greenough is a Harvard graduate, class of 1919, and has been serving as second assistant commissioner in the Public Heath Department.

Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University, was named a trustee of the State Library board, succeeding Margaret Shea resigned.

Governor Saltonstall also named Nazzareno Toscano of Watertown, as a member of the board of the Department of Industrial Accidents. Toscano is grand recording secretary of the Sons of Italy and is editor of the organization's magazine. He served in the World Weras an officer in the Italian navy.

Toscano replaces Frank Prestera, whose term expired.

Walter R. Meiras of Roxbury, brother of Carroll Meins, former secretary to Gov. Saltonstall, was named to the Boston Licensing Board in place of Atty. Edwin D. Gallagher, whose term has expired.

Cardinal Addresses 503 B. C. Graduates

With Cardinal O'Connell addressing the graduates, Boston College will award 503 degrees today at its 63d annual commencement exercises.

The commencement address will be delivered by Louis J. A. Mercier, associate professor of French and education at Harvard, who also is one of three scheduled to be awarded honorary degrees.

The others are Arthur L. Gould, superintendent of Boston schools, and Sister Helen Madeleine, S. N. D., dean of Emmanuel College.

Exercises will begin with the procession of the graduating class to Alumni field, with Francis A. Campbell of Medford, registrar of the college, as chief marshal. The valedictory address will be given by Edmund J. Kenny of Salem.

Faculty marshals will be Augustine L. Keefe, John F. Norton and Professor Robert J. Buck.

Student marshals will be Francis J. Burns, John J. Dacey, Frederick W. Dowd, Edmund F. Finnerty, Edmund Greeley, Henry F. McMahon, Francis P. Malloy, John C. O'Hara, Phillip P. Perry and Paul R. Sullivan.

The salutatory orator will be Francis X. Ahearn of Allston, for four years a leading scholastic light at the college.

A total of 323 degrees will be awarded by the college of arts and sciences, largest of the five divisions; 58 by the graduate school, 53 from the law school, 45 from the evening division of sciences and 24 from the school of social work.

BIGGEST FLAG DAY PROGRAM FRIDAY

The greatest Flag Day ceremony in the history of the Bay State will be held at Parkman Bandstand, Boston Common, Friday noon, on the occasion of the 163d anniversary of the Stars and Stripes.

DENIS W. DELANEY
Aids Flag Day Fete

A committee headed by Judge Leo F. Doherty has been busy during the past few days completing plans for the huge patriotic event.

One of the highlights of the anniversary will be the raising of one of the most historic flags in the state. The flag will be the "Old Glory," which was flown at the first flag-raising ceremony on the Common several years ago.

When the flag has reached the top of the Common flagpole the thousands gathered will pledge their allegiance to this nation.

ARRANGED PROGRAM

The Flag Day exercises are being sponsored jointly by the Boston American-Record and radio stations WBZ and WBZA of the National Broadcasting Co.

Realizing that Flag Day this year was more significant than any other flag anniversary in the past, the Hearst Boston newspapers and the National Broadcasting Co. arranged for the program.

It was decided that this program must be entirely patriotic without thought or taint of commercialism, or benefit to any person or organization participating. Its sole object is to drive home through sheer sincerity its patriotic purpose, according to Chairman Doherty.

Through the facilities of WBZ and WBZA and Vincent F. Callahan, New England manager of the National Broadcasting Company, the patriotic celebration will be broadcast throughout the entire eastern section of the United States.

The Common exercises will begin at noon and continue until 2 p. m. With the co-operation of Denis W. Delaney, state WPA administrator, ten bands in massed formation, along with the American Singers Choral group and the Boston Choral Group, will perform.

TABLEAU PLANNED

William Haddon, director of the WPA music project, and John McNamara, program director for station WBZ and WBZA, are in charge of the musical program.

Through special arrangements with the WPA and local flag societies a tableau on the "History of the American Flag" will be presented during the program.

Among the veteran groups accepting invitations to serve on the committee are State Commander Thomas J. Quinn, of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion; Wilfred Jacobs, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; A. Richard Zurfluh, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans; churchmen, and several civic organizations.

Leading representative of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths also have been invited to participate in the ceremonies.

The invocation and benediction opening and closing the tribute to the flag will be offered by distinguished clergy members.

Urge $19,725,000 Traffic Fund

Expenditure of $19,725,000 on 11 highway projects to make major traffic improvements in Boston was the recommendation of Mayor Tobin's Conference on Traffic, comprising representative business men of the city.

It would be necessary, the report of the conference said, to obtain legislation at the next session on Beacon Hill to allow use of the gasoline tax fund for the projects, and then to obtain WPA labor from federal sources to complete them.

Chief among the projects proposed is a central traffic highway, which would be an overhead highway, four lanes wide. This would start at Charles river dam and would go through Leverett st., West End, to Merrimack st., to Haymarket sq., through Cross st., North End, across State st. and India st., to Atlantic ave.

Another of the major projects under consideration is what is termed the "Blue Hill Radial Highway." This would start in Albany st., where the overhead highway came to earth, and would extend for two miles to Seaver st. and Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, parallel to Blue Hill ave. The plan avoids Blue Hill ave. land-takings because of the high cost. The radial highway is estimated to cost $3,500,000.

ANTI-CULT FEELING IS HIGH BUT TROOP OFFER SPURNED

KENNEBUNK, Me., June 12—In the wake of shootings, burnings and mob violence, feeling ran high here and in nearby communities today, but authorities announced there would be no need to take up the offer of Gov. Lewis O. Barrows to call out the National Guard.

State Police Capt. William P. Hancock declared that he and deputy sheriffs were equal to maintaining order in the aftermath of public demonstrations against Jehovah's Witnesses sect and their refusal to salute the flag.

Six members of Jehovah's Witnesses, unable to raise bail after being held fo. the grand jury in the shooting of two men, were ordered taken to Alfred County Jail even as authorities arrested two other persons in connection with the firing of the headquarters of the religious cult.

The latest to be arrested, charged with setting a fire, were Ralph Labarge, 26, and Everett Nadeau, 46.

Judge Harold H. Bourne found probable cause against the six members of Jehovah's Witnesses after witnesses had testified that Dwight Robinson, 22, and Fred McDonald, 33, were wounded without warning by gunshot blasts fired from Kingdom Hall, local headquarters of the sect. Bail was set at $5000 each.

The six defendants were Edwin Bobb, sect leader here; Benjamin Graves of Kennebunk, Carroll S. Madsen, 28, and Joseph Leathers, 38, both of Portland, and Richard Trask and Fayette Snowdale, both of Biddeford. All had pleaded not guilty.

GUNSHOT WOUNDS

A 19-year-old Kennebunk youth, Roland Nadeau, testified that shots which wounded his two companions, Robinson and McDonald came without warning from the environs of the sect's hall as the three were returning from a dance. They had driven past the headquarters, Nadeau said, and had stopped near the hall to change seats.

Robinson and McDonald are both under treatment for gunshot wounds at Biddeford Hospital. Robinson's conditions was said to be grave. Two other men, shot and wounded during a later disturbance after the sect's headquarters had been burned by an irate crowd, are also at the hospital. One youth, Jerry Semo, 20, of Biddeford, was said by physicians to be in poor condition as a result of blood lost from a leg wound.

Other witnesses who testified at the hearing, corroborating Nadeau's testimony, were Henry LeBarge, State Patrolman Harry P. Mcabe and George Beckett.

Nazis Admit U-Boat Stopped U. S. Ship

BERLIN, June 12 (AP)—It was a German submarine which stopped the United States liner Washington at dawn yesterday on its refugee-carrying European voyage, authorized German sources disclosed today.

These informants said that the submarine learned that the liner was on a northern course, headed for Ireland.

The German government was said to have been advised that the ship was going to Bordeaux, France, and other ports and that Germany had not been told until later in the day that she would call at Ireland.

An authorized spokesman said today the German government had not been informed of a change in the ship's course undertaken between 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. yesterday.

The liner, carrying 1200 refugees from the war zones and a crew of 570, was stopped 240 miles northwest of Lisbon, Portugal, early yesterday as she was steaming toward Galway, Ireland, to pick up additional refugees. The point of its encounter with the submarine was about 145 miles off the northwest coast of Spain.—Editor's Note.

U. S. Warns Nations Not to Molest Ship

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—Threat of an unidentified submarine to torpedo the U. S. liner Washington, when it halted the vessel and its cargo of 1020 American fugitives off Portugal, caused the State Department to cable a stern warning to all belligerents against further molesting the mercy ship.

The vessel, dispatched by this government to bring back Americans stranded in war-torn Europe, was allowed to proceed only after 10 minutes of tense anxiety during which the terrified passengers prepared to comply with the submarine's order to abandon the liner for the open sea in lifeboats.

ITALIANS IN MALTA RAID AGAIN

from Egypt over the Libyan border into Cyrenaica, and that two enemy planes had been shot down.

The high command said that the attack on Malta was begun at dawn yesterday and resumed at sunset. All Italian planes were said to have returned to their bases.

FORCES DEPLOYED

Except for these aerial combats, the first day of war for Italy apparently was devoted largely to the deployment of forces at various points where troops took up previously prepared positions.

The communique made no mention of actual fighting by land or naval forces.

Announcement that the air forces had gone into action came after a night during which the war was brought home to Rome by the shrilling of air raid sirens and the clamping down of defense measures.

British reports told of Italian air raids on Malta; advices reaching Geneva said Crown Prince Umberto planned to throw his Italian shock troops against the French in the southern maritime Alps; and the Swiss telegraphic agency reported attacks on French Tunisia and Corsica.

The British also said their planes bombed Italian air bases in Libya and Eritrea, in East Africa, and that South African planes raided Italian Moyale, near Kenya Colony.—Editor's Note.

Departure of British Ambassador Sir Percy Loraine and his staff was marked by roughing up of Thomas McEvoy of Life Magazine, he took flashlight pictures of U. S. Ambassador William Phillips bidding farewell to Sir Percy.

Soviet War O.K. Waited By Turkey

BUDAPEST, June 12 (AP)—Turkey's call of 200,000 additional reserves to the colors was interpreted in Balkan capitals today as indicating that she is preparing to fulfill her pledges to the Allies and enter the European war—provided Soviet Russia stays out.

Informed sources estimated that Turkey now has approximately 600,000 men under arms, and the small nations of southeastern Europe looked anxiously to their own defenses as the war clouds grew blacker.

YOUTHS CALLED

Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia hope to maintain their neutrality even if Ankara votes for war, but the fate of Greece is closely linked with that of Turkey.

Intense diplomatic activity was in pdogress in Ankara and Athens where the government yesterday stepped up its military preparations by ordering the class of 1931 to report for "periodical training."

Reports of British aerial activity over Italian bases in North Africa and of Italian air raids on Britain's naval stronghold at Malta forecast a rapid development of the conflict in the Mediterranean area.

WAIT STALIN ANSWER

Diplomatic circles anxiously debated whether the conflicting interests of Russia, Germany and Italy in the Danubian region would be likely to serve as a stabilizing influence or to hasten possible spread of war to the Balkans.

All quarters seemed agreed, however, that if Josef Stalin indicated to Turkey that her entry into the war would be the signal for Russian intervention in behalf of the Rome-Berlin axis, Turkey would have no course but to keep out.

There have been some indications that Russia was steering away from the axis, but the recent resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Rome and Moscow cast fresh doubt here on Stalin's intentions.

Promulgation of additional decrees to place Turkey on a war time basis was expected.

Egypt Decides On War Today

CAIRO, Egypt, June 12 (INS)—Egypt waited tensely today for a crucial parliamentary session which may bring a declaration of war against Italy.

The cabinet was understood to have drafted a statement of policy toward Italy which will be read to Parliament today.

(According to a Cairo dispatch to the London Daily Herald, the Egyptian government decided to break of relations with Italy. Egyptian police and soldiers, this report stated, immediately began rounding up Italians—Editor's note.)

Council Resolve Praises Hearst

William Randolph Hearst's advocacy of a national preparedness program today had formal recognition by the Cambridge City Council, which unanimously passed resolutions hailing the famous publisher as "an erudite, sagacious and brilliant civic leader."

A copy of the resolution, offered by City Councilor Francis J. Roche, was sent to Mr. Hearst.

". . . The City Council of Cambridge hereby expresses profound gratitude to William Randolph Hearst for his constructive and progressive action in awakening American people to the peril of unpreparedness, and the urgency and the importance of adequate national defense sufficient to repel any foreign invasion," the resolution said in part.

Conant Endorses Compulsory Military Training for U. S.

President James Bryant Conant of Harvard, in New York today, added his voice to the host backing William Randolph Hearst's advocacy of national preparedness.

Immediate adoption by the United States of the principle of universal compulsory military training was urged by Dr. Conant in an address before the Jewish War Veterans of the United States.

"Let us hope a law for compulsory training and service will be carefully considered at once," he said, "and acted upon this summer.

"I believe such a law is the only fair way to develop a potential fighting force of the magnitude required. I believe it is the only practical method for an industrialized free society to pursue."

Meanwhile, eight of ten of hundreds of legislators queried today backed strongly the Hearst program for military training in colleges and schools as part of the comprehensive preparedness plan

URGES LARGER ARMY

On every hand, there were supporters of the proposal for universal military training modeled after Switzerland's democratic plan. At the same time, the ranks of Congress wavered in their drive for adjournment by June 22.

Doubt was voiced by administration chieftains that Congress could satisfactorily end its labors by next week. Sens. Tydings of Maryland and Ashurst of Arizona made ringing appeals for Congress to stay here as long as an emergency condition exists.

Many legislators privately declared the temper of the country is so strong for a rounded-out preparedness plan that Congress would be severely condemned if members tan away from their duties.

Among the latest to back the Hearst plan was Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts woman Republican. She said:

"Coordinated system of defense, a large standing army, universal military service, military training in schools, additional service schools, an enlarged Navy for both coasts, enlargement of the Panama Canal and construction of a Nicaragua Canal—all constitute an extremely valuable and excellent defense program. Establishment of an air force under separate command perhaps should not be undertaken just now.

Simpson Spring BEVERAGES

Delight the youngsters as well as the grown-ups by serving these flavorful beverages. Great favorites with New England folks for over 62 years.

FAMOUS FOR QUALITY

What's a "MUG-UP"?

The busiest man on a 40-Fathom trawler is the cook. He serves four square meals a day, and coffee, sandwiches and doughnuts are kept ready in the galley day and night for the in-between snacks known as "mug-ups."

The provisions taken aboard for the 10-day trip to the fishing banks are astonishing. 400 pounds of potatoes for 17 men! 500 pounds of meat! Not to mention the fish and lobsters that come aboard in the nets.

Between 50 and 90 different food items are purchased for each trip. And all best quality. It's a 40-Fathom rule that good fishing deserves good eating.

ALL OF NEW ENGLAND OPENS ITS HEART TO WAR ORPHANS

Blue-eyed baby girls with golden curls . . . chubby little boys with sunny smiles . . . British children, French children, Polish, Belgian and Dutch children—New England wants them all.

If the government in Washington will slash red tape, dispense with formalities and lift immigration restrictions, men and women of Massachusetts and our five other states will rescue more than a thousand young lives, gravely endangered in total warfare abroad.

During the last 24 hours nearly 600 letters reached the editors of the American, the Record and the Sunday Advertiser.

Each contained an offer to take one or more little refugees either for the duration of the European conflict or for life.

Most expressed the hope that children could be brought here as soon as possible.

All letters are being sent to the special War Orphans Bureau opened in Washington by this newspaper in co-operation with the Record and Advertiser.

The hope is that the great volume of promises to care for the little girls and boys will influence officials to permit the children's early entry into the United States. Typical letters are:

From Fall River—"We have been married close to four years and have no babies of our own. There is nothing we would like better than to have a child to care for and love.

"If it is possible, we would like to adopt a little French or English baby girl, one or two years of age.

"We are financially able to provide adequately for a baby daughter."

From Somerville—"I would be delighted to take a small boy, aged nine or ten, into my home at least for the duration of the war. Because I am English, I would prefer an English child.

"My husband and son saw active service in the last World War. My husband passed away a few years later.

"I am still a young woman, but not young enough to offer myself for service across. However, I could and would give a mother's love to a war orphan or to one temporarily here for safety.

"May God bless your efforts and induce the government in Washington to co-operate with you."

From Everett—"We are interested in caring for two war orphans, either boys or girls if we are fortunate enough to receive them.

"We are Catholics of Irish parentage. We have two children, a son and a daughter.

"The little ones would have a real home with us."

From Reading—"I don't see why there should be the slightest hesitancy on the part of the government when children's lives are at stake. We speak of helping the Allies. What could be better than caring for their sons and daughters?

"There's a very warm and welcome place in my home for two little boys from any of the war-torn nations abroad."

From Roxbury—"My little Mary, the dearest little thing in the world, passed away a year ago. Since then life has never been the same for me. If only our intercession induces the government to allow me to take a little British or French girl, I shall love her always and prove myself a real mother."

ORPHAN OF WAR

Appeal Answered

From Watertown—"I am very interested in your attempts to bring children here from foreign countries.

"If you can help me to find a little girl, any age from six to twelve, I would be very grateful. Many, many families are in sympathy with the movement, and nearly everyone without children wants them. I know several personally.

"If you can find a little girl who is lonely, too, from a Scotch or English home, I am sure she would soon learn to love me as the wonderful mother I have always hoped to be."

From Rockland—"My husband and I are financially able to care for another child, and we would be happy to give some poor little one from Europe a good American home.

"My sole aim is to do my bit for some unfortunate child. She doesn't have to be beautiful, just healthy. The plain children need care as much as the attractive ones.

"I hope this country will see fit to let us who will take care of someone less fortunate in the world do it."

HITLER HAMMERING AT GATES OF PARIS

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1940

vital Suez Canal, had been specifically exempted from Italy's war aims as pronounced by Premier Mussolini—if it maintained its neutrality.

The Germans were reported "sinking everything" on the now full-blazing battle for Paris.

The din of the enormous conflict could be heard in the streets of the French capital, and flashes of gun-fire were plainly visible from the housetops of once gay Paree."

A French military spokesman acknowledged that "the situation remains one of extreme difficulty."

The famous cathedral city of Reims was also claimed by the Germans, according to its high command.

Other successes announced by the German high command included:

1—Capture of Compiegne, scene of the signing of the armistice in 1918, on the Oise river north of Paris.

2—Crossing of the Seine at several points.

3—Allied troops cut off and surrounded near St. Valery, on the English channel coast.

4—Le Havre bombed; seven Allied transports sunk, 10 other vessels damaged; 59 Allied planes and three barrier balloons destroyed.

British bombers, roaring across northern Italy to rain explosives on military objectives, brought home to the Italian people today the meaning of the war.

Almost simultaneously the Italian high command announced that a series of air raids had been carried out with "apparent results" against the British Mediterranean naval base of Malta. Britain minimized the effect of the attacks.

The Italian announcement said that British air raids on desert airdromes in Italian Libya, previously described by London as "a great success," had been beaten off without serious damage.

Neutral Switzerland, meanwhile, also felt the horrors of war when unidentified planes dropped bombs which killed four persons and injured 18 near the French border. Both French and Swiss anti-aircraft guns fired without effect.

Rome itself experienced its first air raid alarm this morning, but no bombs were dropped and it could not be determined whether enemy planes had actually approached the city.

The Italian communique made no mention of land action against France.

French in Last-Ditch Battle at Paris Gates

PARIS, June 12 (INS)—The French armies surrounding Paris withdrew to the very outskirts of the capital today and took up last-ditch positions to defend the city against the greatest attack of its long history.

From the west, east and north the valiant defenders fell back to prepared positions and while the roar of artillery was clearly heard from the nearly deserted boulevards, the "Battle of Paris" got under way.

The Germans announced capture of Rouen, cutting off Paris from Le Havre, and also Reims and Senlis. They also claimed advance of motorized units to a point only 12½ miles from Paris on the northwest. The Nazis have crossed the Seine at several points below Rouen, Berlin asserted.—Editor's Note.

To the east of Paris, the French have now fallen back south of the Marne, scene of the great battles of 1914 and 1918 when the Germans almost reached the capital.

In 1914, Gen. Gallieni's "taxicab army" stemmed the German attack at the Marne and four years later the Allies, strengthened by fresh American troops, broke the back of the Teuton army at the same spot and began the closing phase of the war.

BATTLE ALONG MARNE

Today the French fought alone along the Marne, for British contingents which succeeded in reaching France after the Flanders evacuation were believed concentrated only in the far west.

From Compiegne, Royon, Soissons and Chateau Thierry—all names of fame in the last great conflict—the French fell back, bitterly resisting every foot of the way, but falling back non the less in the knowledge that only by creating a smaller, compact front on the very fringe of the city would there rest any hope of saving the city.

North of Senlis, twenty-six miles from Paris, there was in progress what an official French military spokesman described as a "grand battle." South of the Aisne and near the plateau of Soissons there was terrific fighting as well, with carnage spread across the wide flat area between La Ferte-Milon and Fere-en-Tardenois.

CHATEAU THIERRY TAKEN

Thus the Germans mastered the Ardennes plateau and seized Meaux, Chateau Thierry and other points where so much blood was spilled a quarter of a century ago and is being spilled again now.

The French retreat is not without its strategy. The Germans, spokesmen admit, have thrown a wheel around Paris, but the French army is the hub of that wheel, and until the hub is broken, Paris cannot fall.

It is anticipated that the French withdrawals will continue until the high command has created an impregnable block of men and steel around the capital. The hope remains that the Germans eventually will exhaust themselves in pounding against the bulwark and finally give Gen. Maxime Weygand his long-awaited chance to attack.

Germany is reaching the peak of her drive in an increasingly desperate gamble for victory, according to French military authorities.

At least 100 German divisions have been pressed into the blazing onslaught against French defenses between the lower Seine river and the Argonne.

A military spokesman declared:

"The battle for Paris is now fully engaged following the French withdrawal to points north of the city."

Hitler has hurled every tank and mechanized vehicle he possesses into the battle. All German reserve tanks are in action, French authorities said, as well as tanks used for instruction and training purposes, which have been rushed to the front from the interior of Germany.

Hitler has shoved in the stack. Every chip is on the table.

The French, who are using tanks, are launching counter-attacks against the few German units which crossed the Seine near Vernon yesterday.

WAIT ITALIAN BLOW

Despite mobilization preparation of 15 days and although they have 50 or 60 divisions poised on the border, the Italians have not yet taken a plunge against the French in the Alps, where French fortresses and mountain troops await them.

Nazis Claim Battle Rages Only 12½ Miles From Paris

BERLIN, June 12 (AP)—Reims and Rouen have been captured, Allied troops have been trapped on the coast by crossings of the Seine at several points below Paris and German divisions are standing on the Oise, 20 kilometers—12½ miles—from Paris, the German high command reported today.

On the eastern flank of the French capital the River Marne was said to have been reached "on the broadest front with strong force." Germans declared that the French counter-offensive from the Marne which saved Paris in 1914 could not be repeated.

Authorized German sources declared it would be a "crime" for the French to defend Paris as the Poles fought in Warsaw. The Polish capital was devastated before the Poles surrendered.

Rouen, on the meandering course of the Seine between Le Havre and Paris, was said to have been in German hands for several days.

"The Seine beyond Paris already is crossed by our troops at several points," said the daily communique of the high command.

"One enemy group is cut off near St. Valery and encircled on the coast.

"Northwest of Paris divisions standing on the Oise are 20 kilometers (12½ miles) outside Paris and the outer defense positions running along both sides of Senlis.

"Compiegne, scene of the disgraceful armistice dictate of 1918, and Villers-Cotterets are in our hands."

It was in a forest near Compiegne that the World War armistice was signed in Marshal Foch's sleeping car headquarters Nov. 11, 1918.

Allied forces on the lower Seine were said to have been pushed across the river with "heaviest" losses.

The German claim to hold Rouen and Reims—cities of more than 100,000 peacetime populations—would represent two great footholds northwest and northeast of Paris, respectively, with which to reinforce the projected engulfment of Paris.

Nazis Control Air Lines

every inch of the fortified terrain of the Panama Canal zone, as well as the interior of Colombia.

The story of how Germany has honeycombed South America with air bases and possible garrison centers for air attack goes back to the end of the World War, when Germans began emigrating to South America in large numbers.

Since the rough countryside and almost impassible interior makes automobile and train traffic hazardous, the continent was ripe for air exploitation. Soon scores of German privately-owned airlines were flourishing.

When Hitler came into power, Lufthansa—the government subsidized aerial arm of Germany—began taking over these small individual companies and proceeded on a vast scale of development under direction from Berlin.

GIVEN BLANK CHECK

Lufthansa agents, it was learned, were given a blank check and told to:

1—Obtain landing fields and airports everywhere, whether of definite commercial value or not.

2—Overlook cost and expense, since losses sustained would be made good by the German government.

Lufthansa quietly dropped out of the picture and in its stead the various newly-incorporated airlines began to appear—as German as ever, as subsidized as ever.

And Americans recall Hitler's own promises as to South America:

"We shall create a new Germany there. We shall find everything we need there. We shall not land troops like William the Conqueror . . . our weapons are not visible ones."

U. S. Rushes Plans For Aid to Allies

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—The War Department today rushed negotiations with munitions manufacturers to start vital war materials flowing to the embattled French and British military forces.

A substantial quantity of guns, rifles and ammunition, plus as many as 1000 airplanes, will be turned over to private firms for resale to the Allies, according to officials.

Ninety-three army war planes were en route today to Houlton, Me., for shipment across the Canadian border. They are six and seven years old and are Northrup two-seater attack types. They were ordered turned over to the Allies last night by the War Department.

First big purchase of surplus munitions material for resale to the Allies—a $37,600,000 deal—was announced by the United States Steel Corp. in New York last night—Editor's Note.

Senate approval of the Allied aid program was voted yesterday as Congress and the Administration moved on many fronts to carry out President Roosevelt's promise of aid to the Allied powers.

FINANCIAL AID URGED

Ignoring warnings that the United States is being brought closer to war, Allied sympathizers on Capitol Hill urged enactment of additional measures that, in effect, would lend Britain and France every American aid short of manpower.

A movement to furnish financial assistance to England and France gained momentum in both houses.

Sens. Pepper (D.) of Florida and Lee (D.) of Oklahoma are sponsoring a resolution authorizing the President to suspend the neutrality and Johnson acts. The neutrality act prohibits extension of credits to belligerents while the Johnson act bars financial help to war-debt defaulters.

For the present, the Allies have a considerable supply of cash on deposit in the United States. While no official estimates are available, informal Treasury compilations place their financial holdings at several billion dollars.

MASS PLANE PRODUCTION

Mass production of air-planes for the British and French was discussed by government defense advisers yesterday. Louis Renaud French industrialist called on President Roosevelt and will meet with members of the national defense advisory commission this week.

Edsel Ford reported to the commission that the vast facilities of his automobile empire could start production of airplanes and airplane engines almost immediately.

Meanwhile, Congress is expected to approve President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 fund for relief work in Europe. This fund would be administered by the Red Cross.

Italy, Texas Town, Wants New Name

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—The town of Italy, Tex.—population 1500—wants to change its name since the country of Italy has gone to war.

Rep. Luther Johnson (D) of Texas, notified the post office department to this effect today after Italy's postmaster, George F. Sheppard, asked him how to go about effecting the change.

The post office department, Johnson said, will change the name on petition of the citizens, providing they select a name that does not duplicate that of another Texas town.

Italy, said Johnson, is a prosperous farming community, and has only one resident of Italian descent.

Army Training For CCC Hit

WASHINGTON June 12 (AP)—While demands increased for a continuous congressional session during the European war crisis, an argument over military training for the Civilian Conservation Corps delayed final Senate action today on the $1,073,581,316 relief bill.

Senator George (D.) of Georgia started the dispute by proposing "voluntary elementary military training" for the 300,000 boys, in addition to training in noncombatant services recommended by the administration.

This drew opposition yesterday from Democratic Leader Barkley and Senator Byrnes (D.) of South Carolina. They argued that the War Department did not want to train the CCC enrollees for combat warfare, but sorely needed trained cooks, photographers, mechanics and other skilled workers.

Numerous other defense provisions inserted in the relief bill won Senate approval without discussion.

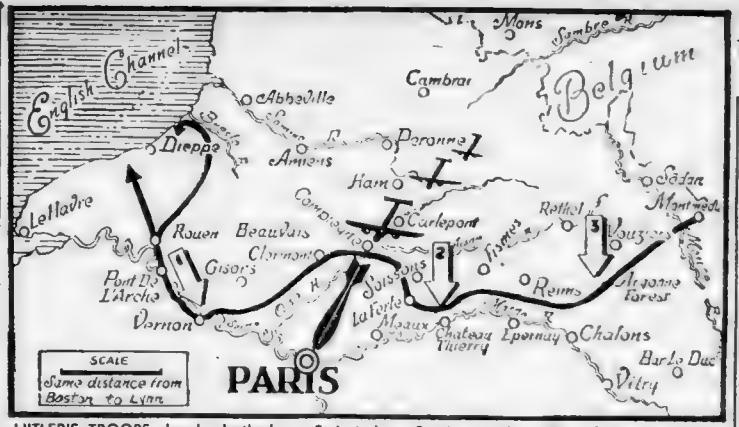
Juliana Goes To Quebec

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12 (AP)—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands and her two small children entrained today for Quebec.

They arrived yesterday on take refuge in Canada for the announced purpose of safeguarding the continuance of the royal dynasty.

Before departing, the princess stood on the deck of the Dutch warship which yesterday brought her here and addressed the officers and sailors in Dutch.

A special train sped her toward Quebec, where she is expected to stay either at the famed old Quebec Citadel summer home of the governor general—or at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel.



HITLER'S TROOPS closed relentlessly on Paris today. Roaring up the valley of the Seine (1) the Germans claim capture of Rouen and Vernon and say they are now within 12½ miles of the French capital. Another drive is headed down the Oise (2), with heavy fighting centering around Senlis, 25 miles from the center of Paris. The Germans claim capture of Reims. Around Chateau Thierry (3) the French are desperately fighting the Third Battle of the Marne.

Hurdy-Gurdy Man in Britain Plays It Safe

Refugee's Children Have Alien Measles

NEW BEDFORD, June 12 (AP)—Mrs. Hilbert Serbin, who returned from Europe on the U. S. Liner President Roosevelt, declared today she suffered the "biggest blow" of the entire trip when she reached her home here.

"Being severely pro-British," said, "the biggest blow of my whole voyage was to find my four children recuperating from German measles."

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 12—Can it be that we're in for a revival of opera on the screen? Things point that way on the Paramount lot where Richard Bonelli and Irra Petina, both of the Metropolitan, have just put their distinguished names on contracts.

Producer Andrew Stone selected these two for roles in "There's Magic in Music" after several weeks of auditions in New York.

"There's Magic in Music," is the new title for the Alan Jones starrer "Interlochen," and has to do with the famous music camp in Interlochen, Mich. Grace Bradley has also just been signed.

This and That: Ona Munson's three-picture pact with Republic has blossomed into a long term contract. Her next will be "The Lady from New Orleans."

Nigel Bruce says his nerves are in perfect condition and please to correct the impression that he held up production on "The Man from Fleet Street" because of news that David Niven was going into action. He did have that word from David, but didn't allow it to affect any shooting schedules.

Marijuana Evils to Be Revealed on Globe's Screen Friday

Federal Files Supply Story

The story of the greatest foe of youth—marijuana—is dramatically and painstakingly brought to the screen in "Reefer Madness" coming to the Globe Theater, Friday morning.

Presented by a cast of the finest young players from Hollywood and carefully chosen character actors, the film shows the work which the Federal government is doing to wipe out the weed.

No attempt has been made to color the film, which is based on a case in the files of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. It is a graphic presentation of the effect which the drug traffic has upon a young high school girl, her widowed mother, her childhood sweetheart and younger brother.

Interwoven in the film are interesting shots showing how deadly the drug is and can be—grown in every state in the Union—how it is transported, treated and sold.

Among the versatile young stars appearing in the film are Lillian Miles, Dorothy Short, Dave O'Brien, Kenneth Craig, Thelma White, Carleton Young and Harry Harvey, Jr.

Continuing through today and tomorrow is "Boogie Woogie," sensational all-colored revue featuring Fess Williams and his 14 piece band, six Lindy Hoppers and a fast-stepping line—Black Diamond Chorus.

PARAMOUNT, FENWAY BECOME 'TORRID ZONE' TOMORROW

ANN SHERIDAN supplies the heart interest for James Cagney in "Torrid Zone," Warners' action-romance opening tomorrow at the Paramount and Fenway.

Cagney, O'Brien Sheridan Star

James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Ann Sheridan, Warner Brothers' "terrific trio" in their latest tempestuous action-romance, "Torrid Zone," will take top honors on the Paramount and Fenway program starting tomorrow.

Aiding and abetting the trio, last seen together in the record-breaking hit, "Angels With Dirty Faces," are Andy Devine, Helen Vinson, Jerome Cowan and George Tobias.

The companion feature is "Fugitive From Justice," thrilling story dealing with ruthless racketeers and the men who bring them to justice, with Roger Pryor, Lucille Fairbanks and Eddie Foy, Jr.

"Torrid Zone," unreeled against the exciting background of a South American banana republic, stars Cagney as a plantation manager, O'Brien as a fruit company superintendent, and Ann Sheridan as an entertainer and card sharp.

Directed for action, punch and speed by William Keighley, "Torrid Zone" shows O'Brien utilizing one scheme after another to keep Cagney in the banana company's service although Cagney is all for returning to the States.

Following a dangerous experience with a native revolutionist leader, Cagney realizes that he loves the impetuous Miss Sheridan.

'Abe Lincoln' Film On Bowdoin Screen

Bowdoin Square screen's attraction is "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," with Raymond Massey again playing brilliantly the role he created in Robert Emmet Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize winning play. This is one of the screen's finest films and should not be missed. On the same bill is "Star Dust," presenting youthful Linda Darnell.

Modern Warfare Thrill Film On Boston's Screen Thursday

A flaming indictment of modern warfare, a grim recital of roaring bombers raining death upon millions in a metropolis, this is the story told so aptly in Columbia's "Mad Men of Europe." It opens tomorrow at the RKO Boston Theater, with Edmund Gwenn and Mary Maguire in the leading roles.

Universal's romantic comedy, "Love, Honor and Oh Baby!" with Wallace Ford, Mona Barrie and Donald Wood will be the second of the two first run feature attractions.

"Mad Men of Europe" brings all the horror, all the despair and all the tragedy of a nation fighting to preserve its empire.

Edmund Gwenn and Mary Maguire are featured, the former as a placid, peace-loving Englishman to whom war is a remote and distant thing. He does not want to so much as talk of the possibility of its occurrence until suddenly war breaks in upon him in all its horror.

Unknown to him, an enemy spy has planted, in the attic of his home, a powerful radio transmitter. The espionage agent, pretending friendship for the radio loving "kid" brother, honestly in love with the Englishman's beautiful daughter, uses the wireless to send a "beam" which guides enemy bombers in their sudden, fog-shrouded descent upon London.

"Suicide squads" cascade to earth, seize the Englishman, his family and his home, in order to defend their radio guide. How they are routed and turned back by the English forces adds a thrilling finish to this dramatic film.

What happens when a jilted Romeo hires gangsters to "bumb him off," then cannot find the gunmen to cancel the deal after he falls in love again, provides hilarious theme for "Love, Honor and Oh Baby!"

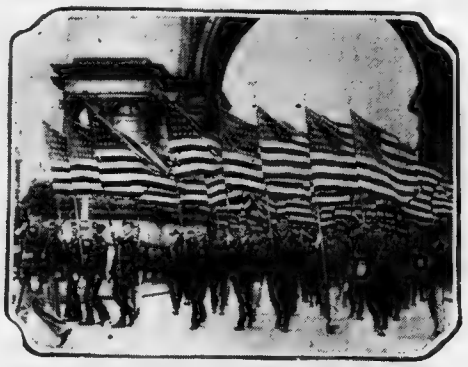
AMERICANS returning from the war-oppressed nations of Europe invariably speak reverently of the American Flag.

Almost without exception, they tell how wonderful it was to see the Stars and Stripes at the top of a mast, symbolizing peace and safety.

To them in scenes of fear, destruction and death, the red, white and blue banner was not mere bunting.



THE FLAG OF PEACE AND MERCY AND HUMANITY
All Boston Will Unite in Its Honor Next Friday Noon

It was assurance of love and devotion and protection.

It embodied the soul and spirit of America.

It bespoke sanity in a world of insanity.

It came to them like a guardian angel to lead them out of the harried harbors of belligerent or war-menaced nations and to take them back secure from harm to the homeland of peace and progress.

All their lives these Americans will honor and love their flag.

In the aweful hour of despair and hopelessness they learned its meaning.

Fortunately, however, not all Americans require so dramatic a re-awakening of patriotism.

In war and peace, most Americans have always remembered to pause in their undertakings and enterprises on Flag Day to recall the incidents and inspiration which gave shape and character to their beloved Old Glory.

AND SO IT WILL BE next Friday noon at Parkman Bandstand, Boston, where our great community's every civic, fraternal, patriotic and veteran organization will join in a mighty celebration marking the one hundred and sixty-third anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the American emblem by Congress in the earliest and darkest years of the Revolution.

The program, sponsored by the American-Record and radio stations WBZ and WBZA without thought or taint of commercialism, will be for ALL BOSTON, ALL MASSACHUSETTS, ALL NEW ENGLAND and ALL VISITORS from other States and nations who share our joy and pride in our great and free land.

It will be an opportunity for every American to show his respect and reverence for the flag upon which all of us who hate war and its perils have centered our faith and hopes.

Gathered about Parkman Bandstand as brother Americans with a common heritage and traditions, we shall all know that wherever it appears this flag of ours is a symbol of peace and mercy and humanity.

And that wherever it flies, it promises charity, comfort and happiness.

IN ALL AMERICA there could be no better place for so inspiring a mass demonstration of confidence in this country and faith in its flag.

We are the nearest American city of the embattled countries of Europe.

If ever this country were invaded by an aggressor or conqueror from over there, we as the first city on his route would probably be the recipient of the initial blow.

Friday noon, therefore, we shall be literally standing at the FRONT DOOR TO THE UNITED STATES, figuratively looking out across the Atlantic to the men and governments that might some day feel disposed to attack us and to them saying:

We are proud of our flag and of all that it represents.

We are glad that it is our privilege as a free people to hold it aloft, to lift our shining eyes to it, to praise it and to WAVE it.

It is the grand and glorious flag of our prized and beloved America.

We joyously show and shout our Americanism, FOR WE ARE AMERICANS.

On The Side -:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

THERE are about 3,600,000 persons living in this country who have not sworn allegiance to the United States. They are aliens. That certainly is a situation needing a good going over . . . A contemporary says Ernest Hemingway originated the term "Fifth Column." Ernest certainly helped make the term widely known, but it was one of Franco's generals who first said: "There are four columns marching on Madrid and a fifth column of civilians in the city who will rise to aid the troops" . . . The Turks and Russians are becoming very friendly. This state of affairs will not appeal to A. Hitler nor B. Mussolini.

A POLL REVEALS the average Vassar College girl "wants to marry, have four children, a house and at least one servant." Yeah, and let's hope she doesn't expect the one servant to cook, clean the house, serve the meals and take care of the four children for $40 a month or less . . . When a woman holds up her cheek, instead of her lips, to be kissed it is an insultingly frigid gesture. If she doesnt want to kiss the guy why not just shake hands? I know about the make-up problem, but that shouldn't stop her.

SOME FELLOWS continue to carry pictures of their wives in the back of watch cases. And some sentimental wives carry pictures of their husbands in compact cases . . . Must write Irene Dunne and Claudette Colbert immediately and tell them to prepare for the worst . . . Not to bank too much on future happiness. Have just noted that statistics reveal when a doctor takes a wife the marriage five times out of 12 ends in the divorce court. And Irene and Claudette are both married to doctors . . . Win or lose the probability is the new base of the government of the British Empire will be in Canada.

"A RETURN to the fine and intense patriotism of our grandfathers" is what an editorial urges. The general idea is all right but the writer should have said "our forefathers." Patriotism was not so "intense" in your grandpappy's day. It took a long, vigorous newspaper campaign to get the people of that time to the point of subscribing a few cents each to pay for the foundation of the Statue of Liberty. This item is part of this department's "The Younger Generation Isn't So Bad" campaign.

ON MADISON AVE., Manhattan, is an artistic, snappy looking spotlessly clean little establishment styled a "Hamburger Bar." Cleanliness and a different sort of an atmosphere always attract the feminine trade. This place is doing much business. However the hamburgers there, as in many other places, are cooked too rapidly. A hamburger should be cooked four minutes on each side.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, June 12—The President, his aides and I left Washington Monday at 2 o'clock for Charlottesville, Virginia. On the way down he went over his speech and I could well understand his desire to weigh each word, for I do believe the time has come to speak out as to where we stand.

Unless we do, there can be no moral unity and no spiritual preparation for the conflict of ideas.

Many years of public speeches have taught me how easy it is, for those who wish to do so and even for those who seek the truth, to misconstrue the meaning of phrases or words or to be confused. It is important, therefore, that every expression of opinion by a public leader should be carefully weighed.

Those who desire to read their own ideas into any expression of opinion will misinterpret anything which is said, but it is possible to cut down confusion. I do not think that anyone who knows the real facts of today's situation can feel that the United States is anxious for war. I doubt if there ever was a nation more anxious for peace.

HOWEVER, I think that the leaders as well as the people have become convinced that peace in a world where force dominates can only be attained by a self-disciplined people who prepare themselves as efficiently as any dictator would prepare his obedient servants.

For a people to do this, they must have a conviction of need and a religious fervor for the cause they are defending.

When the soldiers at Valley Forge wanted to go home, it was not only loyalty to George Washington which kept them suffering in the snow—for they grumbled and complained bitterly about his leadership and even about the cause they were defending—but deep down in their hearts they knew they could not live as free men unless they stuck it out, just as we will today if the need arises.

It was grand to see our daughter-in-law, Ethel, at the station in Charlottesville, walking without a cane after her long weeks of convalescence since her fall. She is still a little lame when her legs get tired, but looks very well, far better than Franklin, Jr., who, I think, must have sat up a few nights before his examinations.

Now he has his law degree, but somewhere in the near future there are the New York state bar exams to be taken and a job to be prepared for, so education always goes on.

Meanwhile, it is holiday time for all these boys. Two of Franklin, Jr.'s classmates joined us at the White House Monday night, and before I left on the night train, I found all of them discussing world economics with the Secretary of Commerce. Though I mildly suggested that a little sleep would do them all good, I left them convinced that the discussion had just begun.

CROMWELL ATTRACTS NEW SUPPORT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 12—Dave Wilentz, New Jersey Democratic official, was here last week-end and promised to give full support to Jimmy Cromwell's Senatorial campaign. "Jimmy," said Wilentz, "is the first candidate we've ever run who had more than two bucks" . . . GOV. OLSON: Leo Carrillo, the screen actor who wanted to be a candidate for public office last year, now is organizing his personal brigade of guardsmen in California . . . WM. RHINELANDER STEWARD: Monte Proser, your associate in "The Zombie" at the Fair grounds, was the guest of honor at Leon and Eddie's Sunday night. Proser, who also owns the Beachcomber on Broadway and La Conga in Hollywood, has lived in New York for 25 years. He has press-agented the most famous stars in America. Sunday night was the first time he agreed to be guest of honor at any function—and the cafe room was crowded . . . Two hours earlier, Proser dined at Toots Shor's, alone. He had phoned all over town and was unable to get a single person to dine with him.

TILLY LOSCH

ANITA LOOS: Your friend, Tilly Losch, the dancer, has left England for a refuge in Ireland . . . EDDIE RICKENBACKER: Administration officials will try to effect the naming of an army man to the Civil Aeronautics Authority, to expedite the civilian pilot training program . . . HARVEY D. GIBSON: Last year an unknown producer, whose Broadway show had been called the worst ever produced in New York, presented a new musical on W. 44th St. After the curtain descended on that premiere, Lee Shubert offered to pay the cost of the entire production in return for a 50 per cent interest . . . The producer, 31 years old, tossed a coin—his last 50-cent piece—and it came Heads. "That means I won't sell," he told Shubert, and decided to risk it. He went home broke and the next morning learned that he had his first hit—"The Hot Mikado." Now, one year later, his three enterprises are helping to make the World's Fair a success. And last week Mike Todd, now presenting "Streets of Paris," "Gay New Orleans" and "Dance Campus," made "Who's Who in America."

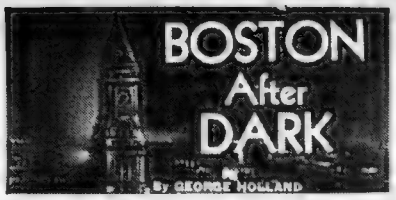
LUCIUS BEEBE: Charles Coburn wore a monocle, as is his custom when he went to the Capitol to see himself in "Edison, the Man." Coburn confessed that he uses glue to keep the monocle in place . . . GRETA GARBO: Aldous Huxley is ailing in Hollywood, and now is on a diet even stranger than yours. He eats nothing but raw carrots . . . HARRY RICHMAN: Dick Merrill, who made that round trip flight with you across the Atlantic, is pondering over the question of opening a school to train pilots.



ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Two comical Joes who part their name with "E." will meet in the Cape Cod sector late this summer . . . Joe E. Brown will be working at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, and Joe E. Lewis, this community's pet as a nightclub zany, will be "laying off" at nearby Hyannis . . . July 22 is the date of Joe E. Brown's premiere as Elmer of "Elmer the Great," a play by the late Ring Lardner which has been done under three other titles in picture versions . . . August 1 is Joe E. Lewis' tentative date with himself for a needed vacation.

THAT COMEDIAN BROWN CHOSE the Lardner baseball play (which George M. Cohan produced) as his vehicle for a romp through the summer theaters will surprise no one . . . Mr. Brown is a ballplayer first, a baseball fan second, a baseball club owner third and an actor next . . . Until last year he owned a chunk of the Kansas City baseball club . . . A Hollywood semi-pro ball team wears uniforms he bought and gets bonuses for home runs from the sizeable bank account Mr. Brown has stored up since he left Broadway in 1927 and went to Hollywood . . . When he goes through the motions of being Elmer, the Lardner eccentric rookie pitcher in "Elmer the Great," Mr. Brown's gestures will be authentic.

BOSTON FRIENDS OF JOE E. LEWIS will be delighted to learn that the impish, puckish, elfin and generous comic has boosted his salary to $2000 a week . . . It was "standard" at half that sum last season, although Joe worked a trifle cheaper at the Mayfair during the first of two appearances . . . Mr. Lewis is a rabid sports-fans, too . . . He follows the horses . . . At his new wage, Mr. Lewis will open at Ross Fenton Farms (New Jersey) June 28 . . . After his vacation, Joe E. (Lewis) may be in the mood to launch the new season at the Mayfair, which has become his traditional local outlet . . . The new $2000 wage would have to be bobbed a bit, but Mr. Lewis was never difficult as a business man

SHAW'S PRODUCER COMING TO U. S.

G. B. Shaw

Pinch-Hitting for Loulla O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 12—The amazing Gabriel Pascal who persuaded George Bernard Shaw to let him make a movie of "Pygmalion" and did such a good job that he now holds the movie rights to all Shaw's works, will arrive in America in three weeks. With Richard Oswald, Pascal will co-direct and co-produce "The Captain of Koepenick," a re-make of the German picture which won an Academy Award for the best European film shown in America in 1934. A satire on Prussian militarism, "The Captain of Koepenick" was first produced by Oswald ten years ago before Hitler was all powerful in Germany, but did not reach America until four years later. Oswald himself fled to this country about a year ago.

VIRGINIA BRUCE

Pascal's departure from England would seem to indicate that he has abandoned shooting on Shaw's "Major Barbara" which was already in production with Wendy Hiller. Perhaps he'll make his Shaw movies in America now—if GBS will trust him so far away!

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: If it's on the level that Freddie March is planning to desert the movies for good why is he building that small house in Bel Air? The Gary Coopers have changed their minds about that Bermuda trip and will be back from New York next week; Pat Morison and Matty Fox who weren't so chubby for a while, are perusing menus together again. Dorothy Lee will adopt that five-year-old boy who's been living at her home for some time.

FLORENCE RICE had dinner at the Hollywood Derby with Broderic Crawford. He's plenty keen about her but she insists she and hubby Bob Wilcox aren't planning to sever; Fifi D'Orsay divides her time in New York between Lyle Talbot and Marty May, who made a hit in "Walk With Music"; Claudette Colbert can't go to Honolulu because she has to start wardrobe tests for her Para pic; Mary Beth Hughes at the House of Murphy with Tex Harris, the ork leader.

* * *

VIRGINIA BRUCE is having her portrait painted by Mrs. Lenore Gardiner, who's done Bette Davis, Dolores Del Rio and other femme celebs; Lloyd Nolan went shopping for baby clothes and got mobbed by a bunch of female fans; Rita Hayworth and her much-photographed wardrobe will appear in paper doll form soon.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE occupants of the small living room had been gay and cheerful a few minutes ago. Now a dark shadow fell over the room. It was quiet. The letter that John had just received was the cause of the gloom.

John's mother and his two sisters were watching him intently—as if he could explain the letter—as if he could! Well, this is what he had wanted, wasn't it? He had wished for it—even prayed for it, when he was just a kid.

The letter had come from Washington, stating that he and his Post were to leave for the front immediately. His friends must have received the same message. Were they experiencing the same feeling he was; a feeling he could not understand.

His mother's soft sobbing brought him to the present. "Son," cried his mother, pathetically, "must you leave right away?" He did not speak—could not. She threw herself upon him crying over and over, "Oh, my poor boy——"

JOHN HELD HER very close. "Keep your chin up, Mom. I'll be back home before you can have time to miss me." It was a pitiful attempt at humor.

The next week John had left to fight like his heroes of yesterday. He could not forget his mother's parting words.

"I lost your father in a war, I can't bear to lose another loved one."

Queerly enough, John's father had not been found. His name had been on the "Missing Men" list after the war was over, but being missing, John knew there was little hope that he was still alive. Still ——

JOHN'S COMPANY of men had been captured by the enemy after months of bitter struggle. As John filed into the room with his company he wondered if he was ever to see his mother again. Then he looked up. The officers were searching him but John could only stare at the captain. His breath came in short gasps.

Why, it couldn't be! The captain did not notice him and yet as he watched him, he knew the man resembled someone—and that someone was him.

Before he could think correctly, John heard the men behind him whispering. Something about the captain.

"Say, did you hear about that captain; I was told he lost his memory in the World War. Shell-shocked, gee, it's tough. But I suppose we shouldn't feel sorry for a man that holds the future of our lives in his hands.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE WERE talking about Parents 1904 model versus 1940. And the vote was practically unanimous that the current crop is a much more cheerful and companionable breed than those of yester-year.

For one thing, they are certainly easier on the eye, these youthful home-builders of today, and far more charming as human beings.

It may shock Gram to hear Junior call his Mother by her first name . . . and razz Dad as lustily as he does his toy friends. But that very familiarity makes for a healthy frankness we never knew as youngsters.

The kids can not only discuss the pestier facts of life with the Home Guard but can frequently hand out a few helpful hints that quite escaped the class of 1883. So, taking it by and large, I'm all for the existing set-up. And yet—

In one way, I think the old-fashioned fathers and mothers made the modern models look like a bunch of peevish pikers and that was in their attitude toward the Doubt and Discouragement which inevitably infect adult life.

THEY KEPT their serious worries and disillusionments to themselves . . . and didn't hang them on the kids.

Life was a grim affair to most of them. They literally counted pennies, scrimped and saved, patched and turned.

And current notions to the contrary, the future was just as vague and menacing to them as it is to us today. But they kept it to themselves.

That was their burden to bear as adults; it was not to be shared with Youth.

IT'S A PITY the modern parent can't be equally sporting. The toughest thing for any youngster to take is doubt. He can endure and even enjoy hardship if it is put up to him as a challenging adventure.

He can face reality with the courage and poise of a veteran.

But doubt poisons him . . . disillusionment rots him of those most priceless weapons—his own faith, spunk and enthusiasm.

Sneers are a deadlier peril to youth than sawed-off shotguns.

By BETTY ALDEN

BLONDES, BRUNETTES and red heads—debutantes of the coming season gathered some 100 strong for Barbara Anne Newbert's coming out party at the Brae Burn Country Club yesterday, and resembled pages from the latest summer fashion magazines . . .

The winsome little hostess, who has already captivated the stag line at the season's first debut dances, put in a busy half hour before her guests began to arrive . . . There were telegrams of best wishes to read, little match cases with her name printed on them to arrange with a cluster of cigarettes in front of each place on the luncheon tables, and photographs to be taken . . .

As the first guests arrived she and her mother, Mrs. Walter E. Newbert, stood in the receiving line before a bower of pink and blue flowers and greens to welcome her sister debs and a number of Mrs. Newbert's intimate friends . . .

A little bird must have whispered to some of the girls that pink and blue was the color scheme Barbara had chosen for her party, for many of the guests wore dresses of these fashionable springtime colors . . .

Anne Clark, a tall blonde with a lovely tan, set off her coloring with a blue bolero dress embroidered with white . . . Her open crown hat was of white pique . . . Nancy Bernard, another attractive blonde, who makes her debut at a luncheon at the Sheraton Roof Friday, wore a tailored blue crepe dress with a fetching blue bonnet with scalloped brim . . .

Nancy Wilbur, who stepped into the social limelight at a tea the preceding afternoon, chose a pink flannel suit with navy accessories for her luncheon costume . . . She attended with Mary Collinson who wore a navy polka dot dress and wide brimmed navy bonnet and veil . . .

Mary O'Day in Gay Peasant Type Frock

EMILY GARRITT helped to count noses as the guests arrived so that the hostess would be sure everyone had come before luncheon was served . . . Mary O'Day attended with her close friend, Mary Favorite, and wore a gay peasant type frock of tangerine, blue and white stripes, with blue slippers and a big white hat . . .

Virginia Frothingham, in gray and white print with a shell pink necklace, chatted with Anne Lyman, Alice Hunsaker and Lucy Twitchell, and Anne Beebe, who makes her social bow today, wore a rosy rust linen bolero dress with white accessories . . . Jean Roberts, another of the attractive blondes in the new deb group, wore a beige panama hat with a band of green print to match her frock . . .

Barnet Gring, who wears her hair in a distinctive middle part coiffure, wore a gray sheer wool dress with a flared circular skirt and white pique collar and cuffs . . . Still others in the gay throng were Polly Curtis in navy blue taffeta with a circular skirt, Meredith Wagner, Dorothy Wightman, daughter of Mrs. George Wightman of tennis fame, Lee Burnett, Lee Cullen in a striking gray and white print with a hood lined in cherry red, Peggy Crocker, Nancy Scott, Sally Cole, Beverly Moore in navy blue with touches of white, and a group of sub-debs including Anne McCutcheon, Constance Cady, Hermine Bazirgan and Sally Delano . . .

Anne Beebe Makes Debut at Dedham

YELLOW GLADIOLIAS and bright red peonies form the background for the receiving line at Anne Beebe's debut luncheon at the Dedham Country and Polo Club this afternoon . . . Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Beebe of Chestnut Hill, is wearing a dress of white silk jersey printed with gay flowers, a white picture hat and a corsage of pink and white lilies . . . Mrs. Beebe's navy blue dress had touches of white at the neckline and her hat and corsage are also white . . .

Best Wishes For Deb

Radcliffe Class' Reunion

Reunion festivities get under way this week-end at Radcliffe, where the most important events are being held to celebrate the class of 1915's 25th reunion.

Mrs. Theodore C. Brown of Winchester, assisted by Mrs. Walter J. Perelis of Boston and Margaret S. Perry of Cambridge, is in charge of 1915's luncheon celebration at the Harvard Faculty Club Saturday afternoon. The alumnae show that afternoon, highlight of all reunion festivities, is in charge of 1915 members with Dorothy Sands of Cambridge directing, assisted by Mrs. Everett A. Tutchings of New York.

Saturday evening the 25-year class will sponsor a silver anniversary supper at Cabot Hall for all classes which were in college with them. Miss Harriet J. Hite of Cambridge and Mrs. Nelson Sprague Greely of Cambridge are in charge of this affair.

Mrs. William A. Hill of Belmont will entertain her 1915 classmates at supper Sunday evening. The committee in charge of Sunday's activities, which include a memorial service and discussion meetings, includes Mrs. Carlos A. Richardson of New Britain, Ct.; Mrs. Van Buren Moody of Middletown, Ct.; Mrs. William W. Norcross, Wellesley Hills; Mrs. William A. Hill, Belmont; Mrs. Albert C. James, New Ipswich, N. H.; Winifred Moore, York, Pa., and Gertrude Shaw, Cambridge.

Plan Benefit At Pops

Boston music lovers will do their bit to help provide food and shelter for Dutch refugee children by attending a benefit performance of the Pops, Friday evening, June 23.

The imposing list of sponsors includes Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Richard Saltonstall, Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rodman Peabody, Dr. and Mrs. George Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wallace Woodworth, Hon. and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague Coolidge and many others.

Jacobus Langendoen, composer and first cellist of the Pops Orchestra, will have one of his compositions played that evening.

Cooking

Eggs Handy Menu Aid

By MARTHA LEE

"FAIR and warmer," says the weather man unfeelingly. Fair and warmer should mean simple ways of dispatching household tasks. In the cool morning hours before energies have reached their lagging indifference, meals may be prepared for quick finishing at the end of the day.

With your finger in your cook book or recipe file placed at "summer suggestions," don't forget that hot weather meals must be planned with an eye to good nutrition. The protective foods dare not be neglected. Eggs, milk, fruits and vegetables are grand combinations for summer needs—sustaining, but not heavy food.

HAVE COOKED EGGS ON HAND

A dozen or more eggs hard cooked in the morning become the substance of a salad, a hot dish, or a platter of deviled eggs or an egg garnish for a cold, crispy salad.

To have hard cooked eggs tender and without any dark discoloration over the yolk, place eggs in pan on rack and cover with cold water. Bring very slowly to simmering temperature, cook at this temperature for 20 to 25 minutes. Place in cold water to chill promptly. Store in refrigerator until needed.

And here are some delightful ways to serve these hard cooked eggs:

DEVILED EGGS

2 tbsp. cream, or mayonnaise
1 tbsp vinegar
1½ tsp. mustard
1½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Cut hard cooked eggs in half crosswise or lengthwise. Remove yolks and put through sieve. Add seasonings and whip or beat until very smooth and fluffy. Refill shells. Garnish top if desired with chopped chives or parsley, paprika, caviar, etc. Additional seasonings may be added such as onion juice, caviar, anchovies, sardine, ham, cheese, etc. Makes 12 eggs.

MOLDED EGGS

8 hard cooked eggs
¼ cup butter softened
½ tsp. white pepper
½ tsp. salt

Chop the hard cooked eggs rather fine. Add seasonings and mix thoroughly. Press into well-oiled molds. Chill several hours, or overnight. One mold may be used, in which case the garnish may be sliced or cut into any desired shape. Makes 2 cups or 8 small molds.

This mixture is a delicious sandwich filling.

Here is a tasty dish to prepare in the morning, ready for the oven hours later

ESCALLOPED EGGS AND CHEESE

1½ tbsp. butter
1½ tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. paprika
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
6 or more hard cooked eggs
1 cup soft bread crumbs
3 tbsp. melted butter
½ cup grated cheese

Prepare a sauce of butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Arrange in greased casserole in layers, using ¾ cup crumbs mixed with 3 tablespoons melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., until sauce is bubbly and top nicely browned, about 40 minutes. Serve plain or with tomato sauce. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

You Can Be Beautiful

Custom-Made Make-Up Cream Glosses Blemishes, Waterproof

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU WANT the smooth look of a rare oriental pearl to be the first, breathtaking impression your complexion gives, you must use a make-up . . . not as we once knew it, a dusting of powder and a touch of lipstick . . . but a specialized "make-up" in cream form.

There are make-up foundations galore . . . but only one like the complete cream make-up that's out now today.

It's the only make-up cream (by this we mean it is a foundation and a make-up in one, with absolutely no powder to be used) which is blended before your very eyes, using shades intended for you alone. Custom-made, in all truth.

So completely impervious to water or other moisture is it, that it actually has to be removed with cream . . . Yet it blends so exquisitely with your skin that it is a second, velvet-smooth complexion. All blemishes go out of sight as though a curtain were dropped over them!

Imagine being able to get a compact-size of the make-up cream for only $1!

Any skin which has reminders of unhappy early skin conditions . . . marks of past eruptions of any kind . . . is the one for which this cream is specially intended. If your skin is relatively unmarred then, you can see what singular beauty of flawless effect it can give! Without a trace of shine!

Its formula differs from others also . . . in it is a fatty base necessary to any and all kinds of make-up creams, whether intended for a dry or oily skin) . . . and strangely enough, the oils in it proceed downward into the tissues, while the surface remains intact, perfect as a perfect pearl, for hours.

If your skin is fair, and for evening you want it to have a translucent pale glimmer . . . try the specially concocted evening base with green shades in it!

If you're blonde and somewhat sallow, there is a rose-tan formula which will give it a sunny peach-blossom look . . . and the effects are endless, all the way to a devastating Mexican tan.

To learn all about this custom-made make-up cream, which is blended for you and takes the place of foundation and powder ($1 for a compact size) phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CONTEST RULES

1—The Typical American Family Competition, conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American, in co-operation with the New York World's Fair of 1940, is open only to citizens of the United States residing in Massachusetts.

2—The name and address of each family, with the number of children, boys and girls, must be submitted on the official entry form, together with a letter of not more than 300 words describing the family and explaining why it should be selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts. No photographs will be returned.

3—Entries will NOT be judged by the literary style or excellence of the letters submitted, but strictly on the qualifications and characteristics of the family.

4—A recent photograph or clear snapshot of the family must accompany the entry.

5—The entry of a candidate family must be submitted by a relative or friend, or by a member of the family.

6—Entries close on Saturday, June 15, at midnight. The completed form must be mailed or delivered to the Advertiser-American Typical American Family Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., before that time.

7—The selection of the Typical Family will be made by a committee of distinguished Massachusetts men and women well qualified to establish the requirements of a Typical American Family, and the committee's decision will be final.

8—The parents and two children of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be not over 18, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and back by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The Family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for this reason only four members of the Family selected may go to the Fair.

The Family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that entrants give permission to publish photographs and stories of their Family.

10—This competition is not open to employes of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of other publications or advertising media.

TYPICAL AMERICAN FAMILY IN MASSACHUSETTS CONTEST

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY OR TOWN _____
NO. OF CHILDREN _____
BOYS _____ GIRLS _____

RECENT PHOTO OR SNAPSHOT OF ENTRANT ATTACHED HERE NOT NECESSARILY THIS SIZE

Judging in the contest to choose the Typical American Family in Massachusetts, with the first prize a whole week, expense free, at the New York World's Fair of 1940, will begin Monday.

As soon as possible after that, the winners in the contest which ends promptly at midnight next Saturday, will be announced by the board of judges.

The house in which the winning family will reside at the Fair is one of two newly-built FHA model houses, both of which have been completely furnished by Sears, Roebuck & Co.

This same concern will completely outfit the winning family for its trip before the start for New York is made.

Elsewhere in these columns the simple rules of the contest are printed. And remember, too, there are four other World's Fair prizes for the next four families picked as runners-up:

Second prize: Free transportation, round trip, between Boston and New York via New Haven R. R.; free admission to the Fair for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $40.

Third prize: Free transportation via American Airlines; free admission for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $30.

Fourth prize: Free transportation, via Eastern Steamship Lines, cabin and meals free; free admission to the Fair for three days, free entertainment and guides—plus $20.

Fifth prize: Free transportation, via New Haven R. R., between Boston and Providence, and Colonial Steamship Lines between Providence and New York; free cabin and meals; plus free admission for three days, free entertainment, free guides and $20 cash.

When Secretary Became Wife

By Nancy W. Walburn

AFTER tomorrow they would say of her: "She married her boss." And that was exactly what she wanted, not the world, but Mr. Ronalds, her husband-to-be, to forget! What would she care if the whole world whispered: "She used to be his stenographer." As long as Jim was proud of her, what else mattered, what else could matter?

The Cast of Characters in "When Secretary Became Wife."

MISS THOMPSON, a secretary who, though engaged to marry MR. RONALD, her boss, has her misgivings as to their future happiness.

She was proud o' getting shorthand, which she at first loathed and despaired of ever transscribing successfully, so letter perfect that her business college sent her out to the best job they had on their books. She was grateful to her shorthand again for being assigned to Miss Taylor for Mr. Ronalds' special dictation (out of all the 60 girls in the central stenographic department, in less than a year).

You see, Miss Taylor was secretary to Mr. Ronalds. So by the time Miss Taylor's mother had a stroke out West and the whole job of coming home to care for her was dumped on her, Mr. Ronalds was so used to his new assistant on special dictation that he asked for her to replace Miss Taylor.

Hadn't that been the proudest moment of her life? Scared? Plenty! That was the day she had taken over Miss Taylor's old desk, put in her own Kleenex and cold creams, tied her old ink eraser to the machine by an elastic, and then quickly sat up straight to look business-like when Mr. Ronalds came in.

Not even in her dreams did she think of marrying him in those days! The glow, the glamour, he added to her 9-to-5 office day were enough. Just to sit near him, to hand him the telephone, to hear the change in his voice when the call was personal and the intimacy in his eyes when he smiled at a retort unheard by her.

And above all, that first time, when at the end of a hard pressed day, he had said, leaning back momentarily relaxed, his hands clasped over his head, 'Some day we've put in, I'll say, how about you, Miss Thompson?" How delicious that first "we" had been! And yet she hadn't fooled herself one little bit that he had meant any more than just that—that she was good on the job.

A BIG HANDICAP

She never knew until long afterwards the reason he suggested that she move her desk from where Miss Taylor had it. In the new location by their 27th story office window he discovered the sun flooded in afternoons and turned her coppery golden hair above her white skin into sheer gold.

Oh, there was plenty she hadn't known until that night with his head pressed close against her cheek he told her. That wasn't the problem that was causing the perplexed little frown between her eyes right now. The sunlight, the morning sunlight, this time from the East River over which her woman's hotel window in the Sixties looked to Long Island City, had again found her, this time still in the hotel bed late this Sunday morning. Tomorrow the quiet wedding at his sister's. And then the plane for the South.

The secret of that perplexed frown, that momentary pause while still wide awake before plunging deliciously, excitingly into her last day as Miss Janet Thompson, had not at all to do with what was left to do on this last day. It was what she had overheard by chance last night. She had gone downstairs to return a library book and she was cutting across the lounge for visitors. "A girl who marries her boss has a big handicap after she marries him!" That was a sentence that floated out to her from a group as she passed. It made her suddenly pause and take an interest in the book nearby to hear the rest.

'You mean that he'll be so used to giving orders that she will be taking them for the rest of her life?" put in another voice with a laugh. "Not at all," the first voice came back sharply, "but since her whole job has been protecting him and wrapping him in cellophane, he won't think of protecting her! She won't be likely, you see, to inspire that tender solicitude side of marriage. And what she'll miss won't be half of what he'll miss out on. Every man likes to think of his wife as a helpless little thing, and she's cheated him out of that."

Maybe it was because she was tired from weeks of noon-hour shopping, over-wrought and a little scared about tomorrow, but that snatch of talk had kept her awake half the night. Was it really true that since she wasn't helpless, Jim would miss out on something?

HER OPPORTUNITY!

But how could she of all people pull a big act and go helpless and fragile and expect to get away with it? Jim would think her crazy! And yet, and yet—suppose that she got more out of their marriage than Jim did and that in the end he would feel she had failed him? She couldn't bear it! Her brow knit together as she set her mind to find a way out.

Came the dawn, came the wedding day, came the wedding, the plane, the suddenness of the breath-taking beauty of the South, the sea, the sky and the sky-blue water. Came days drenched in sunshine and the salt of the sea under the moonlight. And then one day she was alone in a hut near a rainswept beach up the Florida Coast. Almost before daybreak Jim had left her to take out fishing two important business clients, in fact so important that a telegram had come from the main office saying, "Sorry old man at a time like this but will you hand them just one good time."

Being now an ex-business woman as well as dutiful bride, she had over-ridden Jim's protest that she would be happier and direr back at the hotel and had come out here to the hut to meet him. Oh, she wouldn't be lonely! Well, she was! She had been wretchedly so all day, in fact, already so dependent on Jim for happiness that it was a little frightening. Now she lit the fire and crouched for warmth before the open fireplace. Though the radio from the car and the latest best-seller novel was within reach and readable by the firelight, her thoughts went back to her resolution. But how, where, was she ever to appear helpless and frail?

At that same instant she caught the flash of a movement on the wooden floor. Though twilight had not yet set in, the shadows in the hut beneath the tall cocoanut trees were deepening. And then she saw what the movement was—a snake. Slowly coming toward her, long, treacherous and stealthy. Here was the setting for fear, for a good healthy terror!

Quick as a flash, however, she had to admit that she wasn't in the least frightened. Back home as a school girl she had once killed the same common variety of harmless snake. Too late to save it, she had seen it in the road, and ending its pain, had carried it home as a trophy around the handlebars of her bicycle. That same instant as she stood against the fireplace she heard Jim's voice, cat-calling to her in his eagerness as he came striding up the path. She was half across the room before she checked the impulse to meet him. For was not here her big chance?

Quickly she pressed forward against the wall, feigning terror, her shoulders shaking as if with sobs. When Jim bounded into the room he found her distraught, unable to speak, pointing to the still approaching snake. It was an hour before he, overcome with remorse and self-reproach, could calm the shaking little figure in his arms. He hadn't known, he hadn't realized, he "must have assumed she was big and brave and fearless just because she, as an orphan, had been out in the world earning her own living."

That night he insisted that she have a hot bath, hot brandy and go straight into bed, in which he tucked her, hovering anxiously over her. It was not until long afterward when she was sure that he was fast asleep that she began to cry. She felt so much of a cheat, a fraud, a fakir! But how to admit that she had cheated and triumped up the whole scene" That was her dilemma! For Jim would never trust her again. If she didn't tell him she would hate herself and if she told him—she shuddered at the thought. Down through the years she saw their marriage as a mockery of the faith that she had destroyed.

The wind and sea spray were full on her cheek, her hair blown back its length off her face when she saw and I confess to Jim. It was the best day of their honeymoon. Again their bags were packed and again the next day Carefree she crept back in the boat with its sail taken in hand, chuckling at the jerk of the sail but determined to Resolute and determined to come clean, come what may, she told him.

Quickly she pressed forward against the wall, feigning terror, her shoulders shaking as if with sobs.

"But aren't you really afraid of snakes," he asked, incredulously. "All girls are."

"Afraid!" she cried contemptuously "Why as a kid in my teens I even rode home with a snake twined around my handlebars and scared the whole family into fits. I had seen it in the road too late to avoid it, so I finished off its misery and took it home in triumph."

But what all the echo?"

Taking a breath so deep of the sea air that with her emotion she felt almost choked, she repeated—in a voice so low that he had to lean forward to hear—what the women back home in that group had said.

JIM CONFESSES

Eyes downcast she was nervously fingering the hem of her shorts when her head a great shout, so sudden and high above the wind that she looked back over their course before she realized it had come from Jim. His head was back, his shoulders shaking, his grip on the tiller so relaxed that the catboat suddenly bobbed crazily out of control. Her relief was so intense that never again was she to feel the salt air against her cheek without recapturing that flood of emotion.

"You thought you had cheated because of being the protective he liked Janet Thompson." If you only knew what a fool you were in your office." And again his head back and what he said were lost in the broadcast half across to Spain above the roar of the wind. "Why I'll be able to take you out of that office was the first real he's undertaken that this self-centered old pirate of a husband of yours has ever known."

A "sniff?" It was her turn to be incredulous, shaken in her pride. "Was I as bad as all that? Wasn't even my shorthand any good?"

Though he had the catboat now back under control, Jim was not to be his relish of the situation was "It was the pathetic part, your shorthand of yours—your only to protect the world. Why that was the reason I wanted to protect and take you out before you learned the whole devilish business and how hard and cruel it is for one to be to anyone as soft and defenseless as you. There you have it straight from the shoulder. Though I never intended to tell you much of this."

THE END.

Mistress Mary's Garden----By T. W. Leggett

Begonias prefer soft water. Where rain water can be caught, use that.

For soil, make a compost of leafmold—well rotted leaves, two parts, one part sandy loam and one part charcoal. To this add a sprinkling of nitrophoska, a high analysis fertilizer. Use no lime

Begonias should have at least half shade and be protected from winds and draughts.

Perfect drainage is important. Saucers holding water under the pots of potted plants invite trouble. If a saucer must be kept under the pot, use a large saucer. Turn a saucer upside down and set in the large saucer. Have it sufficiently large so that the pot may set securely in this upturned saucer.

If fertilizer is applied, apply it on the surface of the soil and permit it to remain there.

Begonias make new roots above the old. This demands building up the soil at regular intervals.

Auto Gossip

By AUTO SCOOPS

George Heffron, out at Connolly's Brighton buick, tells us that John Connolly is the busiest man he knows. We know he is, especially when we try to find him . . . Gordon Benway, sales manager at the Henley-Kimball Co., is being kept so busy that he has no idea when he will take his well-earned vacation.

Paul's Tire, Charles Tire and Rubber Co. and Royal Tire of Cambridge report a great influx of business now that they have cut the prices . . Mel Hershon, the busy salesman at Commonwealth Chevrolet, is still setting new high marks in the sale of cars . . .

VIC WEIMAR
Dorchester Buick

Frank Cousins of the Arthur Coombs Co. last week had breakfast at home, took his young son to the airport and went to the N. Y. World's Fair. They arrived home for dinner the same night . . .

John Murphy, president of Hub Chev. Co. Cambridge, has given his Mgr. Frank Egan a free hand to trade new and used cars; their used car stock has hit a new low, with 116 used sold last month and 79 new . . .

Harold Robinson of Porter Sq. Chev., Cambridge has lost some 30 pounds these few weeks. Mrs. Robinson has been very ill and is now at the Faulkner Hospital . . . Figures in the current InSoto Gray Train Contest showed Badgian Bros. of Cambridge in first place for this area and fourth place nation wide . . .

After breaking ground for his new home on Mystic Lakes, Arlington (old Niles estate), Peter Adamian of Somerville Buick left for the Shriners convention in Tennessee . . .

GORDON BENWAY
Henley-Kimball Co.

Bill Caldwell of Broadway Chev., Somerville, has bolstered up his new car dept. with Ed Geary, well-known Chev. go-getter, and 100 car club members . . Ed has a remarkable sales record . . .

"A motor group will soon take big ads to announce that it won't make any new models (1942)—to devote full time to the defense program . . this is a Winchell quote of June 4 . . . Bob Corregan of Murphy Chev. has his eyes on the big Chevrolet contests now running . . . Bill Smith, youthful sales manager at Brodigan Motors recovering from an attack of grippe . . .

Jack Ryan of Delaney Chev. can still turn out a swell game of golf, despite comparative inactivity . . . Leo Morrissey is rapidly gaining favor at Stilphen's for willing and capable effort . . .

FRANK EGAN
Hub Chevrolet

Vic Weimar of Dorchester Buick had a grand month of May in both new and used cars . . . Pete Dwyer of Newton Buick could be in the harness again after an absence of 10 weeks lolling in California . . .

While away, big brother Pat Dwyer, pinch hitting for him, accepted the position immediately . . . Edward T. Reardon of Lawrence and Woodward, Roxbury Ford dealer, says that his boys are doing a fine job in bringing Ford UC inventory down to normal . . .

Jack Karas of Karas Auto Sales enjoys the scenery in Maine. He makes frequent business trips up there . . . Mark Jewell of Wellesley Motor Sales says that Wellesley people turn in some fine used cars.

I RECOMMEND SYLPHO-NATHOL FOOT BATHS. THEY GIVE QUICK RELIEF TO TIRED, ACHING, SWOLLEN FEET!
"You simply soak your feet for from 2 to 5 minutes in a footbath of 2 tablespoons of Sylpho-Nathol to a basin of hot water. You see, Sylpho-Nathol contains Sodium Ricinate—the ingredient which melts away foot-tiring pore grease* helping all other ingredients in Sylpho-Nathol to stimulate circulation and soothe foot-sore nerves. *Pore grease is that greasy residue of skin oils, perspiration and stocking dirt which accompanies tired, aching feet.

Sox Play Model Game; Cling to League Lead

SIRS AND MESDAMES, just when Cleveland's Indians were snorting their hot, second place breath on our league-leading Red Sox' necks and it looked like another knife in the back, our heroes hauled off and let fly, Smacko! between the eyes. It was a ball game to serve as a model for all other ball games in their pennant push and should be stuffed, mounted and hung in the club's front office among the taxidermal trophies of birds and beasts which Tom Yawkey and his hunting pals have bagged in their off-season safaris. The lad might like to look at it again some time!

AUSTEN LAKE

There was a little of everything in this one, from a pale, anemic rainbow which arched under a leaden sky, to a bonfire in the grandstand, lit no doubt by the heat of the fans' enthusiasm. The Chesterfieldian umpire, Mr. Harry Geisel, tossed a souvenir ball to a lady box-customer. A fat lady tumbled over a pair of outstretched legs and fell mercifully on her natural upholstery. A regiment of Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls wore the lining off their larynxes with concerted screams.

But all the oddities were not in the guest sections! There were a lot of didoes on the field:

ITEM ONE—The Red Sox may not have recognized the Cleveland pitcher they whacked so boisterously as The Feller, the league's magna cum laude man. For news sometimes travels slowly at Fenway Park and Cronin's pennant optimists may not read the papers. Feller should have shown them his clippings.

ITEM 2—JACK WILSON, the morose pudding boy who usually comes in to finish somebody else's leavings, commenced his first ball game since mid-April and turned out to be the feller Feller thought he was. Jack had eight genuine, guaranteed strikeouts and gave a scattering of seven hits, one bouncing off his jiggly middle and another off his knee cap.

ITEM 3—The lesson in good manners which Joe Cronin taught Ted Williams last Thursday when he caught the kid by the slack of his pants and made him give Jimmy Foxx a congratulatory handshake after Mr. Muscles biffed a homer, worked on one occasion and not on another. For when Joe kissed one into the left field nets in the third inning, Ted paused dutifully at the plate and gave the boss a sweetheart squeeze. Still, it pains me to report that when Teddy belted a seventh inning homer into the right field steerage section and Jolly Jimmy reached for his hand, the kid dusted past with a haughty flirt of chin and Foxx contented himself with a fraternal pat at the seat of his passing pants.

ITEM 4—If by some queer quirk the Sox win the pennant, it will be Lou Finney's pennant more than any other individual agency. For Lou is hustling to the limit of his natural rubber, as attested by his four-for-five (1) a lazy roller past the box which glanced off a Cleveland thumb with Lou sheering off his body bolts to reach base (2) a seventh inning drool that trickled for two bases along the right field foul line (3) a he-man drive against the score board (4) an eighth inning

RED SOX CLOSE HOME STAY SETTING PACE FOR LEAGUE

By BILL GRIMES

Even if they get knocked back on their heels this afternoon in the second and final game of their series with the Cleveland Indians, the Red Sox will still be in first place when they start West at 11:15 this evening.

Black Jack Wilson created that situation yesterday when he pitched one of the most courageous games of his entire career.

If Al Milnar beats Mickie Harris, this afternoon the Red Sox will start West with an average of .604 against the Indians' .592 and even if the Detroit Tigers, who slipped into second place via of a win over the Yankees plus the Commissioner's verdict over the House of Vitt, are awarded another decision ove" world's champions Manager Del Baker's hirelings will only be ar. even (0).

KID SWEEP—Mickey (Himself) Harris, Sox rookie southpaw, whom Manager Joe Cronin sent out today to sweep two-game series with Cleveland Indians. Jack Wilson bested Bobby Feller in opening game.

CRONIN ENDS SLUMP

On the basis of their offensive power yesterday, Manager Joe Cronin and Teddy Williams have snapped out of their batting slumps If that is so, the Red Sox will give Mr. Milnar plenty of trouble this afternoon.

Cronin unleads against southpaws and Williams isn't the least bit interested whether the enemy tosses a right or left hander against him.

But let's get back to Black Jack Wilson's performance. When it was announced that Wilson would start against Rapid Robert Feller, it looked like the Portland Ore. boy was going to be offered as a sacrifice.

Black Jack got off to a touch start. He walked Boudreau and Weatherly and filled the bases, with nobody out when he nicked Keltner on the overhang of his shirt. But he worked on Hal Trosky and struck out the Indians slugger with a fast breaking inside curve.

And but for the fact that he is unorthodox defensively, Jack would have slipped out of the inning scotchless. Beau Bell hit a slow high bounding ball to the right and Jack was just enough out of position to miss his stab at it.

The ball went to Cronin and Beau was retired, but Boudreau scored. If Black Jack had intercepted that tap he had a double play right in his mitt, a force out at the plate and a heave to first base.

The Indians reached Black Jack for seven hits, three of which, a single, two bagger and a home run rattled off Rollie Hemsley's bat. If he was a member of the Baseball Players' Guild, Wilson would have retired to the showers after the second inning.

With two down in that round, Boudreau lined one, which under ordinary circumstances would have shot into right center field if Bobby Doerr failed to spear it. But Black put so much stuff on that pitch that he fell well to his left after making the delivery and the ball hit on the right leg of his

It was traveling at such a rate of speed that it was impossible to follow with the naked eye. Fortunately, the ball caromed off Black Jack and was retrieved by Jimmy Foxx in time to get the runner at first.

With one man down in the sixth, Beau Bell slapped a one bopper back at Black Jack and upon the Portland boy was caught out of

St. Augustines, Crosbys Bid To Take Over Second Place

Deadlocked for more than a week in second place in the East division of the Boston Park League, St. Augustines and Hal Crosby Club will each bid tonight totake sole possession of the runner up position.

Bill Benson will take his St. Augustines Club to Charlestown where the heavy artillery of the Navy Yard Blues will be trained on hurler Jim Maguire while Hal Crosby's Club will be at home to Artesani Club of Allston, at Carter Field.

At South Boston's Lee Park, the Dick Casey outfit will appear for the first time this year against Carter's Clothes at the retailers home park. And for the occasion, Casey will display either Johnny Wedemeyer or Jack Jackowitz on the hill.

Pete Cerrone of the Casey chuckling corps, who has assumed the ironman role with three wins last week, shut out St. Alphonsus last night at Fena.

Eddie Costello will do the catching for the Carters, while the curveball artist, Wright, will be on the mound.

Johnny Kirby's shipbuilders are still holding second place in the West behind Casey Club and tonight Bob Rich is slated to chuck against St. Augustines.

Hanlon First Townie To Lead Purple Nine In Thirty-Three Years

WORCESTER, June 12—For the first time in the past 33 years a local boy will lead a Holy Cross nine. Immediately following the Crusader's smashing 8-2 series and season concluding victory over a not so potent traditional rival Boston College yesterday at Fitton Field, Jack "Moose" Hanlon, slugging first baseman was named captain of the 1941 Crusader nine.

Hanlon, a junior, who prepped for the Jesuit college at Worcester Academy, succeeds Mike Klarnick, big pitcher, who graduates today.

In yesterday's conquest of the Maroon and Gold, which gave the Purple the annual series, two victories to none, for the first time since 1937, Hanlon shared the hero's spotlight with husky George "Pinky" Woods, sensational sophomore chucker from Waterbury, Ct., who, with a six hit pitching stint posted his eighth varsity conquest of the season.

WOODS' SLATE CLEAN

Woods, who hasn't been defeated in varsity competition, also holds a decision over the Holy Cross freshman team.

Including the conquest of its own frosh, a regularly scheduled affair, the Jack Barry tutored nine ran through 16 straight games without defeat, after opening the season by loosing to Brown. Besides the six hitter which he won yesterday, Woods holds a three hit, 3-0 decision, gained on Memorial Day over the Fred Maguire coached Eagles.

While Woods was throwing curves and fast balls past Eagle batters yesterday, Hanlon, a converted pitcher, was knocking the cover off the offerings of Somerville Fred Leahy. The "Moose" had a near perfect day at bat as he blasted three hits, two triples and a double, in four times at bat, drove in two runs and scored three others to lead an offensive which found Leahy for 11 clean hits in the 7 1-3 innings.

HIT LEAHY HARD

The best pitcher on the Eagle squad had a tough time of it most of the way and in contrast to his Memorial Day stint in which he permitted only five bingles and three runs, Leahy was constantly in trouble. Seven walks and a quartet of Eagle errors didn't help Fred's cause.

Though Leahy's ticket generosity and Purple hits kept the base paths constantly reeking with runners, the contest was very much of a ball game until Big Bruno Malinowski cracked an enthusiastic single to center field which started three runs plateward and increased the Purple advantage to 8-2 in the eighth frame. With the score at 5-2 previous to the hit, Boston College was very much in the ball game up to that point.

apple dumpling pitch which he stroked like a boy petting the family cat. Lady Luck, the fickle jade, loves a hustler.

ITEM 5—JIM TABOR'S WIDEAWAKE eye in the seventh when Hal Trosky's single appeared to have scored Roy Weatherly from second, a bandylegged romp in which Roy stepped over third base. Seldom has a man shown such triumphant emotion as Tabor did when he yelled for the ball and stamped on the bag like a kid snuffing out a grass fire. Of course, in the final sumup it didn't make any difference, yet once before this year has a Red Sox rival overrun his bag—that time in New York when Joe Gordon overstepped first and, on his arrival at second, was aghast to hear himself being thumbed "out." That did cost the Yankees a ball game.

ITEM 6—Bobby Doerr's arthritic, gimby stivvers in running out his baseHits, a double and a single in his first two times at bat after a week's convalescence under Wm Green's therapeutic lamps.

ITEM 7—The exasperated hoot that went up in the first inning when Wilson passed Lou Boudreau and Roy Weatherly and tickled Ken Keltner's stomach with a wild pitch to fill the bases with none out. And the immediate glory howl that went up when Jack struck out Hal Trosky and forced Beau Bell and Ben Chapman to roll to the infield. Again in the sixth Jack demonstrated the theory of how to allow a base hit, and two passes without giving a run.

ITEM 8—THE LUDICROUS AP-PEARANCE of Mike Naymick, Cleveland's second relief hearer as he trundled his 6-feet-eight-inch, hoe-handle figure across the outfield to the box and gave step ladder imitations. The cautious manner in which Sox batters sucked in their abdomens and fished with their bats at his fast pitches, to save being dented by his faulty control.

ITEM 9—The spiritual revival of the Red Sox as they showered, soaped and toweled after the game and the reconfirmation of confidence in themselves after a droopy week of failure and wet weather.

Another Son Of Holy Cross Joins Majors

Holy Cross has sent another son to the major leagues.

Richard "Dick" Blasser, a Dorchester youth, who today was to receive his sheepskin from the Mt. St. James Jesuit college, has agreed to sign a Detroit Tiger contract and was to leave for the Flivver City this afternoon.

Blasser, who first gained attention while a student at Dorchester high school from which he graduated in 1936, has a three year varsity batting average of .311. After amassing a sensational .412 average in 1939, Dick had trouble finding the range this spring and finished with a not so good .260 mark.

Though he may stay with the Detroit varsity for a short time, Manager Del Baker is expected to farm the local youth to one of the Tiger auxiliary minor league teams.

Guibord Extended

After dropping the opening set in the third round to Harold Hunter of Framingham Paul Guibord of Melrose defending champion in the Middlesex Bowl singles at the Newton Tennis and Squash Club came from behind to take the next two sets and win.

The champion was forced to extend himself to win the second set, 6-3, but romped through the third and deciding set to an easy score of 6-1.

The first set was won by the Framingham lad 6-4 when Guibord could not find the groove.

Jack Mahoney, top-seeded player from New York, who recently captured the Connecticut championships flashed through his second and third rounds without too much trouble.

His second round opponent, Walter Burwell bowed in two straight sets 6-1 and 6-4 while Paul Hurley in the third round offered but little more before losing 6-3 and 6-2.

MEN'S SINGLES

Second Round—Jack Mahoney defeated Walter Burwell 6-1 6-4; Robert Rowden defeated Robert Bowden 6-3, 6-4; Harold Hunter defeated Raymond Nadeau 6-4, 6-1; Peter Fisher defeated Paul Guibord 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; Charles Kaye defeated Elton Welch, 6-2, 6-4; Benson Townsend defeated Robert Sweeney 7-5, 6-2.

Sandy Boot Great Router

J. B. Partridge's veteran gelding, Sandy Boot, isn't much for speed in "sprints" but he can keep going all day. In the recent one-mile harlem claiming stakes at Belmont the old fellow was just beginning to run in the last eighth and made up a world of ground to finish third.

Yesterday he was called upon for an extra furlong in the $2500 Short Grass Handicap for Class C horses at Aqueduct and he won off by himself.

Sandy Boot kept plodding along while Sidney Gooch's speedy mare, Short Distance, opened up a four-length lead, but in the stretch drive Short Distance came back while the Partridge veteran turned on the steam to win by three lengths.

CALL CAPITOL 6847

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

TED WILLIAMS grinned from ear to ear as he stood on third base after scoring Lou Finney with his triple in the third inning of the game with the Cleveland Indians. The Coast youth was still all smiles as he raced home on Joe Cronin's home run smash over the left fence.

TED WILLIAMS

When Williams crossed the plate he did not race to the Red Sox bench. Instead he waited to be the first to congratulate Cronin on his circuit smash. This was an outward expression of Williams' enthusiasm over Cronin's powerful hit, and dispelled silly notions to the effect that there was ill feeling between the young slugger and his boss.

When Williams later knocked the ball into the right field stands for a home run, his cup of joy was filled for the day.

The Red Sox looked impressive winning. With all of the regulars back in the game, Jack Wilson had excellent support in the field and at the bat. It wasn't even necessary for Jimmy Foxx to get a hit to crush the Indians so effective were his teammates.

From the time Bobby Doerr bounced a two-base hit off the score board in left field in the first inning, it was apparent that Bob Feller was going to have a rough day. The Sox snapped out of their recent slump and went to town. The shakeup in the Sox batting order helped start the big parade.

AL McCOY, who recently won from Melio Bettina at the Garden, intends to keep active in the ring so that he will be at his best when he collides with Billy Conn, world's light heavyweight champion. As part of his campaign, McCoy will clash with Solly Kreiger, former world middleweight title holder, in a ten-round bout in Brooklyn on Monday night. Kreiger has packed on weight and is boxing in the light heavyweight division.

Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club is bidding against Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club for the proposed Conn-McCoy bout. Conn, the only Irish-American ring champion, is Jacobs' best New York attraction with the exception of Joe Louis, and he believes Billy should take on McCoy in Gotham.

Conn has a tentative agreement to meet McCoy here, and Valenti will insist that he keep it. A Conn-McCoy bout in Boston would be the best possible ring attraction that could be arranged for this city, and it would draw $40,000 which is more than even Hammering Henry Armstrong and Paul Junior did at the Garden.

The Armstrong-Paul Junior gate was $32,000 which is twice as much as Conn and Gus Lesvenich did in Detroit with a $7,70 top. The popular price scale for both of Armstrong's bouts in Boston, the highest priced seat being only $3.30, helped make these shows a success. If Conn and McCoy meet here, there should not be any boost in prices.

At 179½ pounds McCoy proved in the Bettina bout that he has regained his former speed. Al always could punch, while he fights back hard when nailed by an enemy sock.

WHEN THE CHIPS are down, Lawson Little is one of the greatest money players in golf. This was evident when Little won the open golf championship by defeating the veteran Gene Sarazen. At the age of 30 Little had more physical reserve than Sarazen who is 38 years old. Gene once remarked that a golfer cannot expect to shatter many records once he has celebrated his 35th birthday.

Persons who saw the Little-Sarazen playoff are still talking about the wonderful exhibition of golf given by Little. Little rose to great heights on the fifth hole when his drive went into a trap while Sarazen was in the middle of the fairway. Gene's second shot was on the green.

Little then proved he is a golf wizard. He took three or four minutes to study the position of his ball in the trap, then selected a No. 5 iron and dropped the agate to within 12 feet of the cup.

This feat upset Sarazen so much that the latter took three putts where ordinarily he would have been down in two. Little followed up his amazing approach from the trap by sinking his putt for a birdie.

In the company of Bill Grimes and Grantland Rice, I followed Little around The Country Club course in Brookline when he was playing in the amateur championship.

"Little isn't a popular golfer but he is a great one," Rice told me. "The reason for Lawson's unpopularity is that he wins his matches as decisively as possible. He is like the old Dempsey who knocked out his opponent in a round if he could.

"One must admire Little for his spirit in competitive golf. He does his best playing when under fire."

Little has not added to his popularity since that time. He has probably been too busy winning golf matches to care whether anybody liked him.

Little is the son of an American army officer. He is a graduate of Stanford, and first used a golf club while in a cemetery in China. As a boy, Lawson went from one army post to another with his dad.

Gallahadion 123 Impost OK'd

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars has accepted the weight of 123 pounds assigned her Kentucky Derby winner, Gallahadion, for Saturday's $10,000 Kent handicap at Delaware Park, but Trainer Andrew Jackson Joiner has decided he doesn't want to run Your Chance, Mrs. George D. Widener's colt, which was second to Bimelech in the Belmont, under top weight of 126 pounds.

Gallahadion was sent to Delaware after running out of the money in the Belmont and Mrs. Mars is expected to visit the Stanton, Del., track to see her colt run. Your Chance, Joiner announced, will remain at Aqueduct and will be pointed for the rich Dwyer Stakes.

A new prospect for the Kent turned up yesterday when the Brandon Stable's Pass Out clipped a fifth of a second from the Delaware track record for a mile and 70 yards in winning the Montchanin Purse. Under top weight of 120 pounds, the son of By Pass 2nd-Spree was timed in 1:42 flat as he beat J. O. Keene's War Beauty by two lengths.

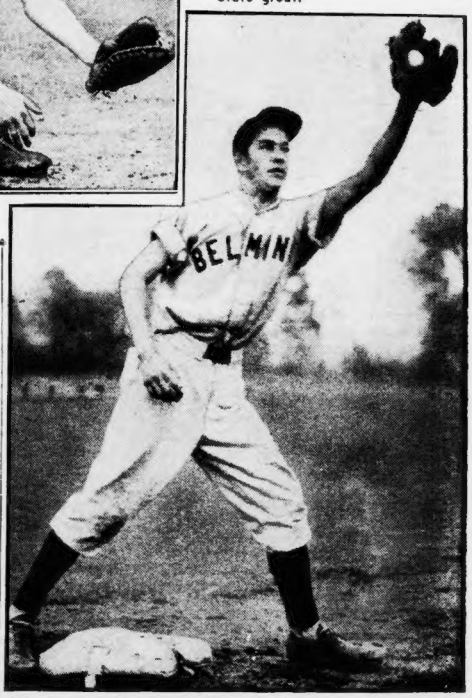
NEXT STOP FOR BELMONT: TURNERS FALLS

HEAVY HITTERS—Dave Gardner, catcher, and Ed Egan and Stanwood Brown, outfielders, who await invasion of Turners Falls nine. Teams meet Saturday in State interscholastic baseball championship final.

DETAIL—Patsy Garofano (left) is only a sub but Polly Harris, Belmont coach, gives him as much attention as any of the regulars. Harris watches every little detail of club. That's why it's a champion. Harris himself is an old Penn State great.

KID STRETCH—Harry Durham, Belmont first baseman, doesn't let many wild throws get past him. Not with that reach.



UP, UP—John Toomey, Belmont third baseman, knocks down those well tagged line drives that are labeled for doubles. Toomey ranks with top notch far turn guardians. Watch him in State championship final with Turners Falls High Saturday at Fenway Park.

Harris Faces Indians

position. While about half recovered, Jack stuck up his right arm and bang the agate hit him and went for a base hit. That was an out, which many of the present day pitchers would have taken.

The Red Sox were leading 5 to 1. Wilson had pitched 5 1-3 innings. If he retired and the Red Sox won, providing the Indians didn't tie up the contest, he'd have received credit for the victory.

Fortunately for the Red Sox, Wilson isn't a percentage ball player. He's also willing to win or lose on his own. And, a gamer hurler never climbed up on any pitching mound.

At the end of that inning, despite that fact that he walked the next two Indians, Cleveland didn't score. Black Jack pulled his glove off with his right hand and started to throw it behind the coaches' box.

THANKS TO WILSON

Apparently Wilson was hurt by Bell's smash, for suddenly he shifted the glove to his left hand and tossed it on the ground. And, when he went to the bat in the eighth inning, Mike Naymick uncorked a wild pitch as Jack was strolling up to the plate. Black Jack walked back, picked up the ball and tossed it to Hemsley with his left hand.

You can't dispute the fact that Cronin and Teddy Williams nicked Feller for a homer and a triple respectively; that Teddy the Kid rifled a home run into Williamsport off Joe Dobson; that Bobby Doerr connected with a single and a two-bagger off Rapid Robert and that Lou Finney got four for five but the fact still remains that the Red Sox are in first place due to the fortitude of Black Jack Wilson.

Star-Dust

(By the Associated Press)

Bill Lohrman and Paul Dean, Giants—Former shut out Cubs on five hits in first game and latter held Chicago to four in nightcap.

Tom Bridges, Tigers—Subdued Yankees on five scattered hits.

Ted Williams and Jack Wilson, Red Sox—Former batted in four runs with homer and triple and latter held Indians to seven hits.

Vernon Kennedy, Browns—Kept nine hits well spaced and allowed only one pass in beating Senators.

Julius Solters, White Sox—His two-run pinch homer in ninth inning beat Athletics, 5-4.

'Daffy' Dean Scores 4-Hit Comeback Win

CHICAGO, June 12 (INS)—Paul Dean, starting his first game for the New York Giants in a comeback attempt, "Daffy" held the Cubs to four hits as the Giants won the nightcap of a twin bill, 3 to 1, after capturing the opener, 4 to 0, on Bill Lohrman's five-hit pitching.

The Giants' victory in the opener broke a Chicago winning streak that had extended through seven games. New York reached Bill Lee for three runs and four hits in the first inning and scored the final run in the sixth on Mel Ott's triple and Lee's wild pitch. Lohrman allowed only one Cub to get as far as third base.

The Giants took the nightcap on an error by Bobby Mattick in the second inning. Joe Moore clouted a homer for New York in the eighth. Claude Passeau was the losing pitcher.

Walters Loses Second As Phils Beat Reds, 4-1

CINCINNATI, June 11 (INS)—Walter Beck tamed the Reds with seven hits as the Phillies gained a 4 to 1 success over Bucky Walters.

It was the second straight loss for Walters who had won his first nine straight of the year.

Philadelphia counted a run in the fourth and three in the sixth, while the Reds got their tally in the third.

Walters purposely walked Chuck Klein in the sixth with Schulte on second. Morrie Arnovich hit what looked like a double play to Myers but Arnovich was safe on Frey's wide throw to first. Schulte raced home on the play and May and Bragan hit doubles for two more tallies.

Five in Row for Browns As Senators Bow, 5-2

WASHINGTON, June 12 (INS)—St. Louis gained its fifth straight victory by defeating the Senators, 5 to 2.

After Dutch Leonard walked two Browns in the fourth, Berardino singled to put St. Louis a run out front. A triple by Travis and Bloodworth's single tied the score for Washington in the fifth.

Three singles, a double and a pass gave the Browns four runs and a triumph in the seventh.

Vernon Kennedy scattered nine Senator hits.

Tigers Claw Yankees Behind Homer Barrage

NEW YORK, June 11 (INS)—Dick Bartell, Charley Gehringer and Bruce Campbell hit home runs to pace Detroit to a 6 to 1 triumph over the Yankees.

New York scored its lone run in the sixth when Rudy York made a two-base error on Frank Crosetti's bunt and Charley Keller singled.

Tommy Bridges stopped the Yankees with five hits. The Tigers collected 11 hits off Atley Donald, the losing hurler, and Oral Hildebrand.

B'S ROOKIE HEADED FOR ALL-STARS

EN ROUTE HOME—Whiped financially by the weather man and where it hurts by their Western brethren, our poor old Bees are today hieing themselves homeward, hopeful that the friendly confines of the Alston Apiary will aid them in shaking loose a slump which dumped them tail over teacup into the National League dungeon.

They figure to haul into town about tomorrow noon, rest from what is really a wearying train ride, and tangle on Friday with Millville Gabby Hartnett's Chicago Cubs.

BETTER THAN RECORD

Although it's still a little early to be certain, the tea-leaves point to a pitching duel between a pair of gentlemen whose twirling talent this season has been overshadowed only by their tough luck.

They are Barnicle Bill Posedel for our side and Cub Claude Passeau, both of whom have been slinging far classier baseball than their present records would indicate.

Casey Stengel, who has been holding long conversations with the little man who wasn't there since his club went into the tailspin which saw them drop nine contests in 11 starts on the road, still refuses to give up on his charges.

MEDWICK

ROSS

ROSS LONE STANDOUT

He points with pride, and the records show it's justifiable, to the way Chet Ross continued to belt enemy pitching despite the batting nose dives of the rest of the Casey clan.

It may be that the Bees' season will be classed as a success this year no matter where they finish simply because of the discovery of this youngster.

With two road trips under his belt and nearly a third of the season in back of him Big Chet is dangling a .329 batting average under the noses of the astute gents who declared at the start of the season he was at least two years away.

MAY MAKE ALL-STARS

And what is more, Ross is trailing only Eddie Miller in the runs batted in department and is leading his club in home runs with five. With Joe Medwick playing only so-so ball for the Cards, Ross may be the boy holding down the left field berth in the coming All Star game.

The Bees felt right sad about missing out on last night's game with the Cardinals. That 12 to 2 thump thye handed the lag of St. Louis gave them a real lift and they figured they could repeat the drubbing. But Jupe Pluvius said "no."

Maybe they'll be able to transfer that shellacking to the Cubs. Be sure and be at the ball park so you don't miss it.

And don't sit on your hands. Remember what a lift from the crowd did for the Sox.

TURIN, MILAN FIGHT RAIDS

ROME, June 12 (AP)—Anti-aircraft artillery at Turin, Italy's great northwestern industrial center, went into action against enemy planes last night, Turin newspapers reported today. An air raid alarm sounded at 1:30 a. m. and was in force until 3:05 a. m. An alarm also sounded in Milan, northern Italy's other big industrial center.

On Road to Paris—Blasting away at Allied forces in drive toward Paris, German soldiers man a large-caliber field gun . . . with one member of the crew snatching a used shell casing from the breech as his comrades toss in a fresh round. Today, armored German units were reported within 12½ miles of the French capital.
